Trujillo's Heirs Appear In Control

Fight Seen For Power In Republic

Dominican Dictator Assassinated After Rule Of 31 Years

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP)—Strongman Rafael Leonidas Trujillo's political heirs appeared today to be still in control of the Dominican Republic after the assassination of the dictator. But a power struggle was generally expected.

The dictator's hand-picked government proclaimed "the continuity" of his policies and declared nine days of mourning for the generalissimo who ruledt he eastern half of the island of Hispaniola with a tyrannical hand for 31 years.

Lt. Gen. Rafael Leonidas Trujillo Jr., the Dictator's playboy elder son and some believe his father's choice to succeed him, rushed from Paris by special plane.

A dispatch from Ciudad Trujillo said high government officials were among the crowd that greeted the plane Wednesday night. With him were his younger brother, Rhadames, and the Dominican ambassador to France, Porfirio Rubirosa.

A communique announcing the assassination was signed by President Joaquin Balaguer, whom Trujillo installed as a figurehead president last August when the dictator's brother Hector resigned.

The communique extolled the generalissimo, who was 69, and said he had been the victim of a "treacherous attack" Tuesday night, more than 19 hours before the assassination was announced. But it gave no details of the killing and no clue to the identity of the assassins.

A Dominican newsman reported by telephone from Ciudad Trujillo—the capital city the dictator renamed in his own honor—that Trujillo was ambushed by gunmen as he rode along an ocean-front highway outside the capital. Another car forced his to halt. Several shots were fired from a "handgun." He was believed to have died instantly. His chauffeur was wounded.

Trujillo was armed but "probably had no time to defend himself." A crack shot, the dictator once boasted, "The man who takes a potshot at me had better be sure of his aim. Otherwise he'll be a dead man."

Other sources said seven persons in an automobile made the attack, that two of the assailants were caught or killed and the other five were presumed to have got away.

U.S., FRANCE REACH ACCORD ON BERLIN

Ceramic Lot Plan O.K.'d By Mayor

Next Step Up To Council Monday To Buy Parking Lot

Mayor Bert H. Goodballet Wednesday approved legislation enacted by Council May 16, clearing the way for the city to acquire the old Ceramic Theater building and convert the site to metered off-street parking.

The mayor had been studying the ordinance since May 23, when it was delivered to his desk a week after Council's final action.

The mayor said he took the full time allowed by law to investigate the parking plan, rather than make a hasty decision. He pointed out public interest had been aroused on both sides of the question.

In affixing his signature, the mayor emphasized that only meter revenue will be used to pay for the property — neither income tax nor general tax revenue will be required. In other words, only persons who use the lot for parking will help pay for it.

The average property - owner, even though he pays all the usual taxes, will not be paying a share toward the cost of the lot unless he parks his car there, the mayor said.

"I have been told that the stores and professional offices in the downtown area employ approximately 1,500 persons, making the downtown district the largest single employer in the city," the mayor said. "I didn't sign the legislation to protect the businessmen alone, but the fact that 1,500 persons are employed in the stores and offices makes me believe we must do everything possible to protect those jobs.

"This let alone won't protect those jobs, but it will help," the mayor continued. "If people stop coming to East Liverpool because of lack of parking space, it would mean some of these employes would be laid off. We want to protect jobs wherever possible. I feel it is a service to the employes and a service to the people by providing them adequate parking space.

"We must have off-street parking to supplement our street space," Goodballet continued. "With this new lot and the additional spaces that will be available downtown after the completion of the freeway, I feel we will have adequate parking."

The mayor pointed out that parking is banned on one side of both Market St. and Dresden Ave. at present because they form Route 30's path through the city.

Paris Talks Resume On Vital Issues

Kennedy Aims At Stronger Common Ties With French

PARIS (AP)—President Kennedy and President Charles de Gaulle began their second day of talks on world issues today agreed that the West must stand firm in Berlin but still divided on France's demand for an equal voice with Britain and the United States in the direction of Allied policy.

Kennedy arrived at the Elysee Palace shortly after 10 a.m. for the first of two extended conversations today with the French president. De Gaulle was on the steps of the palace, waiting to greet his American guest.

En route to his morning conference with De Gaulle, Kennedy stopped at the U.S. Embassy and told 500 cheering employes he plans to "take every measure to strengthen common ties" between France and the United States.

"This country is extremely vital to the common cause," the President said, adding that Frenchmen have a special voice and special prestige.

The agreement on Berlin strengthens the policy basis for Kennedy's exploratory talks with Soviet Premier Khrushchev this weekend in Vienna, Austria. The French indicated they were confident Kennedy would take a firm, no-compromise line.

From his morning session with De Gaulle, Kennedy went to the Hotel de Ville—Paris' City Hall—for the capital's official, ceremonial welcome.

A huge, enthusiastic crowd awaited him. A great cheer went up from the crowd outside as Kennedy arrived and a band struck up flourishes. A mounted contingent of Republican Guards in red-plumed, golden helmets brought their glittering sabers to salute as Kennedy entered the ornate main salon. It was packed with invited spectators.

U.S. Keeping Close Watch In Dominican

Clues Sought On Whether Republic Will Be Democracy

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. policymakers watched anxiously today for clues on whether the post-Trujillo Dominican Republic will move toward democracy or erupt in revolution with dangerous results.

The United States wants to be able to throw its weight behind a reform Dominican regime dedicated to democracy, economic improvement and anti-communism. It doesn't want an oppressor of either right or left who would further torment hemisphere relations, and it hopes to avoid links with such a rule.

Scant information on Tuesday's assassination of strongman Rafael Trujillo seeping out of the tightly censored Caribbean land so far suggests the new rulers, for the time being, are carryovers from the rightwing Trujillo nest.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk put off his trip to Paris for the Kennedy-De Gaulle talks to take charge personally of U.S. strategy at a Dominican moment of change which could have heavy impact on the future.

President Kennedy and Rusk, in telephone contact between Paris and Washington, were said to be agreed that the Dominican situation was of such top priority that Rusk could do more by set-

Attorney General Interceded In Aid Of Riders, He Says

By The Associated Press

Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy interceded on behalf of "Freedom Riders" after they were stranded in Birmingham, a bus company official has testified.

However, a Kennedy aide, John Seigenthaler, denied that the Justice Department was working with or helping sponsors of the rides.

This testimony Wednesday preceded a request for a temporary restraining order to prevent several pro-integration groups from interfering with interstate travel. The motion was filed with U.S. District Court Judge Frank M. Johnson who is hearing a Justice Department demand for a federal court order directing Montgomery police officials to provide protection for future interstate passengers.

Johnson also is still considering possible action against two Ku Klux Klan organizations.

Earlier, Birmingham police and one Klan group were dismissed as defendants in the government's complaint, which grew out of violence which greeted a group of biracial Freedom Riders in Anniston, Birmingham and Montgomery.

Civil Service Delay Seen In Nott Action

Hearing Launched; Ruling Is Expected Tonight Or Friday

The Municipal Civil Service Commission was conducting a lengthy hearing this morning at City Hall for William E. Nott, ordered removed from his police department patrolman's post May 15 on grounds of "inefficiency," with indications its decision in the case will be deferred until tonight or Friday.

Nott's removal was ordered by Safety-Service Director Lee Copenhaver on charges filed by Chief Americo J. Radeschi. The officer appealed from the director's order, setting the stage for the hearing. The commission has the right to "affirm, disaffirm or modify" the director's order.

The city's side of the case was presented in testimony from Chief Radeschi; Dr. J. Fraser Jackson, a physician who examined the officer at the chief's request, and Copenhaver.

Chief Radeschi's testimony related mainly to the number of working days the officer missed from 1957 through 1960 and until May 1 in 1961 because of illness. There were 94 in 1957; 48 in 1958; 52 in 1959 and 121 in 1960, with 26 between Jan. 1 and May 1 of this year, the chief testified.

"In your opinion, is this efficient service Mr. Nott has given," the chief was asked by Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper.

Soviet Again Blocks West Plan On Laos

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union has again blocked a Western attempt to strengthen the hand of truce supervisors in Laos to stop violations of the cease-fire.

The Soviets countered by charging the West with trying to avoid getting to the main issue of charting the future of the Southeast Asian kingdom along the path of independence and neutrality.

The East-West conference was still bogged down today on what to discuss first after more heated exchanges on whether peace has really been restored in Laos.

U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman charged the Communist-led Pathet Lao with daily attacks. He said the rebels refused to let the truce teams investigate behind their lines.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Georgi Pushkin insisted a cease-fire has been in effect since the beginning of May. He brushed aside the charge the truce supervisors were being hamstrung and declared they did not need any more authority.

Britain's Malcolm MacDonald backed Harriman and declared he did not see how the Indian-Polish-Canadian control commission could do its job unless it is free to carry out its investigation whenever and wherever it so desires.

The Soviet Union and Britain, as cochairmen of the 14-nation conference, must both approve any new instructions to the commission.

En route to his morning conference with De Gaulle, Kennedy stopped at the U.S. Embassy and told 500 cheering employes he plans to "take every measure to strengthen common ties" between France and the United States.

"This country is extremely vital to the common cause," the President said, adding that Frenchmen have a special voice and special prestige.

The agreement on Berlin strengthens the policy basis for Kennedy's exploratory talks with Soviet Premier Khrushchev this weekend in Vienna, Austria. The French indicated they were confident Kennedy would take a firm, no-compromise line.

From his morning session with De Gaulle, Kennedy went to the Hotel de Ville—Paris' City Hall—for the capital's official, ceremonial welcome.

A huge, enthusiastic crowd awaited him. A great cheer went up from the crowd outside as Kennedy arrived and a band struck up flourishes. A mounted contingent of Republican Guards in red-plumed, golden helmets brought their glittering sabers to salute as Kennedy entered the ornate main salon. It was packed with invited spectators.

Kennedy

line. The President, smiling and looking fit despite his long round of activities, shook hands cordially with city officials and guests.

Mrs. Kennedy entered the salon a few minutes later and the spectators burst into spontaneous applause.

Trim in a tailored gray suit with a pearl necklace and two diamond brooches on her lapel, she bowed smilingly to her admirers.

The President was greeted by the mayor of Paris, Argentine-born Julien Tardieu, and, after the playing of national anthems, seated himself in a gilded chair.

Behind the President, on a huge, draped American flag was an immense seal of the U.S. presidency.

Responding to the mayor's speech of welcome, Kennedy thanked Paris for its hospitality to himself and Mrs. Kennedy and told the audience the "interests and policies of France and the United States" are directed toward supporting the widespread desire for freedom and liberty in the world today.

"Our two countries," Kennedy said, "share ideals of liberty, equality and fraternity, which are in accord with the basic aspirations of people around the world. The desire for freedom and liberty is the strongest tide in the affairs of the world in the 20th century, and the interests and policies of France and the United States are directed to that goal."

Kennedy recalled his state visit to Canada two weeks ago, and noted that debates in Canada's Parliament are in both French and English. Much of New England, too, he recalled, has retained French language and cultural ties with France and he said such French influences are a source of strength in the West today.

"I salute your city, I salute your country, I salute your distinguished president," Kennedy said. "I thank you all."

Another roar of applause echoed through the salon. The reception seemed extraordinarily warm, even in comparison with that accorded President Eisenhower, a soldier-hero to many Frenchmen, on his state visit two years ago.

Delivering his toast to Kennedy at a state dinner Wednesday night, the French president pointedly served notice that as France is to help carry out allied policy, it must have the fullest possible voice in making that policy.

"Our common enterprise, peace with liberty, requires from both of us a reciprocal recognition as complete as possible in the conception of policy as well as in its execution," De Gaulle declared.

Kennedy, speaking earlier to a group of members of the French Parliament, had said that "the way to have consultations is to consult." Diplomats considered that his answer to De Gaulle's bid for a greater role for France in allied policy-making. Kennedy in effect was saying that all the machinery necessary for consultation is already in existence.

After two hours and 35 minutes of talks Wednesday, Kennedy and De Gaulle announced "general agreement" to stand firm against Soviet threats to West Berlin. French officials indicated they were confident Kennedy would take a firm, no-compromise line on this issue in his meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Vienna this weekend.

Kennedy reinforced this impression with a statement Wednesday night that "American forces will remain in Europe as long as they are required, ready to meet any threat with whatever response is needed."

He did not amplify what he meant by response to any Communist threat, but his words implied that the United States would use nuclear weapons if it felt compelled to do so.

Kennedy also said that both France and the United States know that "neither ally would ever ignore the alliance" to go off on its own course.

Kennedy's statement had been distributed with the announcement that he would deliver it at the state dinner. But he changed his text radically when he spoke, confining himself to America's—and his own — close ties with France and a glowing tribute to De Gaulle.

Pierre Salinger, the White House press secretary, indicated Kennedy had decided the social atmosphere of the banquet was inappropriate for a major policy statement. But he said the original text was still a valid statement of U.S. policy.

Khrushchev has threatened to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany this year, giving control of supply routes to the allied garrisons in West Berlin to the German Communist regime which the Western powers do not recognize as a valid government. Any East German attempt to interfere with the allied traffic would produce a showdown on West Berlin.

Britain Wednesday joined Kennedy and De Gaulle in their determined Berlin stand. The foreign office reiterated that Britain "cannot and will not acquiesce in any unilateral Soviet action purporting to change the status of Berlin."

Trujillo

cek reported from Ciudad Trujillo that the leader of the band was Gen. Juan Tomas Diaz, who was believed to have had a personal grudge against Trujillo.

Dominican exiles in Mexico City said Diaz was a career soldier whose sister and her husband fled to Brazil last year. But Diaz reportedly continued as army commander of the country's central one, at least until last January.

Communications were broken with Ciudad Trujillo most of Wednesday but were restored Wednesday night. Dominican citizens apparently were banned from leaving the country, and planes from Ciudad Trujillo had many empty seats. A tight censorship also appeared to be in force.

For the moment the Dominican masses appeared to be stunned by the removal of the man who had dominated their lives for so long. One report said, "The people are very sad—the streets are deserted."

In Washington, U.S. policy makers waited anxiously to learn whether the Caribbean nation would move toward democracy or explode in a revolution.

President Kennedy ordered Secretary of State Dean Rusk to remain in Washington instead of joining him in Paris.

Trujillo—hated by the Communists, fighting with Catholics and bitterly denounced by liberals—has been a storm center of inter-American relations in recent years.

Cuba's Fidel Castro once charged him with financing an invasion to overthrow his regime but the two dictators were reported lately to have been drawn together by the U.S. opposition to both of them.

An estimated 5,200 American citizens live in the Dominican Republic. Even though the United States broke off diplomatic relations with the Trujillo regime, a consulate is maintained there and reports reaching Washington said no Americans had been harmed as a result of the assassination.

At the news of the assassination, Dominican exiles tried to invade their country's consulates in New York and San Juan and seize control. Police subdued them.

Neighboring Haiti, which shares the island of Hispaniola, put its army on full alert and closed its interior border.

Trujillo ruled his 2½ million subjects with an iron hand, giving them economic benefits and stable government unusual for Latin America while at the same time acquiring vast fortunes for himself, his family and friends. The Trujillo clique cominated virtually every phase of Dominican economic life, and the generalissimo profited most from it.

Throughout his career, the dictator did nothing about training a successor or designating an heir. He did show a personal partiality for Rafael Jr., 32, made him head of the air force and heatedly defended him against criticism in the United States of the young general's high living and lavish spending on actresses Zsa Zsa Gabor and Kim Novak while ostensibly taking advanced military training in the United States.

Venezuela Hunting Trujillo-Aided Rebels

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — President Romulo Betancourt's government today hunted fugitive leaders of a rebel band it said planned an uprising backed by an old enemy—slain Dominican Dictator Rafael Leonidas Trujillo.

Venezuelan authorities said 21 plotters and arms were seized Wednesday in dawn raids but some of the leaders got away and may still try a "violent act of desperation."

The government said the revolutionists were armed by Trujillo, who Betancourt charged tried to have him assassinated in June 1960. The Venezuelan leader escaped but was badly wounded.

Trujillo was assassinated Tuesday night just outside his capital city of Ciudad Trujillo.

Trujillo

cek reported from Ciudad Trujillo that the leader of the band was Gen. Juan Tomas Diaz, who was believed to have had a personal grudge against Trujillo.

Dominican exiles in Mexico City said Diaz was a career soldier whose sister and her husband fled to Brazil last year. But Diaz reportedly continued as army commander of the country's central one, at least until last January.

Communications were broken with Ciudad Trujillo most of Wednesday but were restored Wednesday night. Dominican citizens apparently were banned from leaving the country, and planes from Ciudad Trujillo had many empty seats. A tight censorship also appeared to be in force.

For the moment the Dominican masses appeared to be stunned by the removal of the man who had dominated their lives for so long. One report said, "The people are very sad—the streets are deserted."

In Washington, U.S. policy makers waited anxiously to learn whether the Caribbean nation would move toward democracy or explode in a revolution.

President Kennedy ordered Secretary of State Dean Rusk to remain in Washington instead of joining him in Paris.

Trujillo—hated by the Communists, fighting with Catholics and bitterly denounced by liberals—has been a storm center of inter-American relations in recent years.

Cuba's Fidel Castro once charged him with financing an invasion to overthrow his regime but the two dictators were reported lately to have been drawn together by the U.S. opposition to both of them.

An estimated 5,200 American citizens live in the Dominican Republic. Even though the United States broke off diplomatic relations with the Trujillo regime, a consulate is maintained there and reports reaching Washington said no Americans had been harmed as a result of the assassination.

At the news of the assassination, Dominican exiles tried to invade their country's consulates in New York and San Juan and seize control. Police subdued them.

Neighboring Haiti, which shares the island of Hispaniola, put its army on full alert and closed its interior border.

Trujillo ruled his 2½ million subjects with an iron hand, giving them economic benefits and stable government unusual for Latin America while at the same time acquiring vast fortunes for himself, his family and friends. The Trujillo clique cominated virtually every phase of Dominican economic life, and the generalissimo profited most from it.

Throughout his career, the dictator did nothing about training a successor or designating an heir. He did show a personal partiality for Rafael Jr., 32, made him head of the air force and heatedly defended him against criticism in the United States of the young general's high living and lavish spending on actresses Zsa Zsa Gabor and Kim Novak while ostensibly taking advanced military training in the United States.

Venezuela Hunting Trujillo-Aided Rebels

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — President Romulo Betancourt's government today hunted fugitive leaders of a rebel band it said planned an uprising backed by an old enemy—slain Dominican Dictator Rafael Leonidas Trujillo.

Venezuelan authorities said 21 plotters and arms were seized Wednesday in dawn raids but some of the leaders got away and may still try a "violent act of desperation."

The government said the revolutionists were armed by Trujillo, who Betancourt charged tried to have him assassinated in June 1960. The Venezuelan leader escaped but was badly wounded.

Trujillo was assassinated Tuesday night just outside his capital city of Ciudad Trujillo.

Someone Must Make The Move

It would be interesting sometime to hear what goes on in one of the high-level meetings between heads of government speaking different languages. It must be as disjointed and awkward as trying to woo a lady in Morse Code.

But in the attempt to understand what President Kennedy is currently doing in Paris and intends to do in Vienna, it first is necessary to acknowledge something not easy for most of us to understand.

In diplomacy, someone must make the first move. There is nothing automatic about the relationship between chiefs of state. Ultimately, whatever they may be able to decide must be decided man to man—a personal decision. That is the reason for summit diplomacy, which never has been well explained.

FORMERLY, international relations were carried on exclusively at the summit level, even though diplomats relayed the messages back and forth. Heads of states were in continuous communication.

Then came the era of goldfish-bowl diplomacy open covenants openly agreed on. Everything that passed between the heads of states had to be duly recorded and discussed, with the effect that international negotiations became paralyzed. Everybody was scared to do anything for fear of a public reaction that might pull the rug from under him before he had finished.

That was the source of the attraction for summit diplomacy. It seemed reasonable to believe that if the top men could come together face to face they might crack the pussyfoot barrier keeping them from trying to agree on anything for fear the folks back home wouldn't like it.

Some governments, including the United States, had become so sprawled out and disjointed that their left hands and right hands weren't coordinated any more. With due respect to John Foster Dulles, he dominated the foreign policy of the United States so strongly from 1953 to his resignation in 1959 that he had more impact on it than Dwight D. Eisenhower, though Mr. Dulles was only the presidential agent in foreign policy.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY has made the move that must be made eventually by every chief executive of the United States. He has taken the first step to reach the personal relationship that must exist between heads of states. Until he knows De Gaulle and Khrushchev, he cannot communicate with them.

It would help to understand what a difficult thing this is at best if we could hear a transcription of the disjointed and stilted conversations that ensue when two cautious men are making guarded statements in language the other cannot understand. But unsatisfactory as it is, it is the best that can be done.

It is curious, indeed, that men should dream of reaching the moon when they haven't learned to talk to one another on earth. It suggests that moon traveling may be a super escape mechanism for frustrated humans.

Mountaineer Stand

Hancock County residents should be taking special note of the 100th anniversary of the Battle of Philippi Saturday.

Besides being the first land battle of the war — and perhaps the only fight in history in which almost 4,000 troops took part without a loss of life — it was a strategic Union victory which combined with subsequent events to lead to emergence of the new state of West Virginia.

The incidents surrounding the Philippi action typified the divided loyalties in Virginia and other border area states. But the economic, political and idealistic thinking of the 40 western counties brought the only major intra-state split which led to creation of a new state during the conflict.

Otherwise the descendants of the Marks and Gardner families of the Chester district still be paying allegiance to Richmond.

Trouble Started In 1638

It is impossible to know how well the U.S. Supreme Court has settled the Sunday-closing issue with its rulings in four blue law test cases. The rulings upheld the blue laws of Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Maryland—not the laws of Ohio, though that might be a secondary effect.

The Ohio law still contains a point of potential disagreement. It says Sunday closing cannot be enforced against persons who "conscientiously observe the seventh day of the week as the sabbath and abstain thereon from doing things prohibited on Sunday."

The U.S. Supreme Court has taken the position that custom has caused Sunday to be the prevailing "rest day" and it is not, therefore, necessary for a state to make exception on religious grounds. It is noteworthy that one of the dissenting opinions insisted that religious scruples could not be swept under the rug "in the interest of enforced Sunday togetherness."

The Sunday closing issue is troublesome. It is of concern to everybody in trade and to everybody in related enterprise. It has been a source of endless puzzlement to law enforcers and the courts. It would be a comfort to think the issue could be settled by a ruling of the U.S. Supreme Court.

But it isn't that easy. Blue laws have been a problem since the time of the Puritans. The first ones date back to 1638.

Problems with Sunday closing laws in the 19th century and the early part of the 20th century make today's problems seem minor by comparison. But here can be no doubt that today's problems have been growing more complicated because of changes in economic and social patterns that make Sunday business more attractive than it used to be.

One thing should be made clear.

The Ohio law, recently streamlined and boiled down to the essential issue of transacting business, will have to stand on its own feet. The U.S. Supreme Court rulings do not automatically cover the Ohio situation.

First, Ohio law enforcers will have to decide how far they want to go. Ohio courts then will have to decide how far it is legal to go. And eventually Ohio public opinion will have to decide how far it wants to go in these matters.

If the courts could settle these matters once and for all, there wouldn't have been all this trouble with blue laws since 1638.

It Could Happen To Anyone

The explanation offered to the House of Commons early in May for the mysterious disappearance of a secret document entrusted to the British admiralty by the U.S. Navy is so preposterous it may very well be true.

The British prime minister doubts that the document was stolen.

He doubts that espionage or treachery could have been involved.

A traitor or a spy would have copied the document and left it intact, to avert suspicion. A thief would have taken the entire file, instead of a single document from the file. Therefore, it may very well have been a case of mysterious disappearance, such as happens to the rest of us all the time.

What we thought we had right here—right here in this pocket—isn't there when we look for it. We retrace our steps. We wrack our brains. Where did we put the thing? Did we put it down somewhere and run to answer the telephone? Or what? It's gone!

As far as anyone can remember, this is the first time a political notable ever made a plea of carelessness in behalf of a government. Perhaps under the circumstances, it was easier to do this than admit that Britain's loosey-goosey security system had let more U.S. secrets fall into the wrong hands.

But the fact remains that what happens to the rest of us isn't supposed to happen to governments. When they start to plead carelessness, they lose the authority that makes the rest of us pay attention to their edicts, especially edicts about secret information.

The Once Over

"So the government wants to help business, end slump, get corporations going full speed ahead and put more people back to work!" exclaimed Mortimer Topblower. "I heard it that way, too, but it ain't the way it looks in the news.

"Wallops now being landed on biggest corporations in the nation ain't exactly tokens of friendship and best wishes.

"DuPont and General Motors were still taking a compulsory eight-count when Department of Justice announced AT&T was being asked to take off all good conduct medals and come out fighting in purple trunks.

"You could have knocked millions of people over with a busy wire signal when they heard AT&T which ranked up there with the Fairy Godmother, King Arthur, Mothers Day, Horatio Alger and the Purity League was being investigated by Washington.

Any big corporation that ain't building a five-story wing to hold the necessary lawyers for running a business, helping the economy and trying to solve unemployment is nuts. Company that has 100 acres of shops should have at least 50 acres of attorneys."

"After dealing with duPont and G.M. it looks like America said 'What do we do for an encore' and got AT&T into the act."

Topblower didn't understand what the charges were. Probable allegations are (1) Too many wrong numbers; (2) Giving bad weather forecasts through the company TV predictions; (3) Refusing to go back to the old-fashioned telephone wall-set with crank; (4) Refusal to tell public whether all those men on top of telephone poles are wire repairmen or bird watchers. (It's a tough life if you're in business and doing great.)

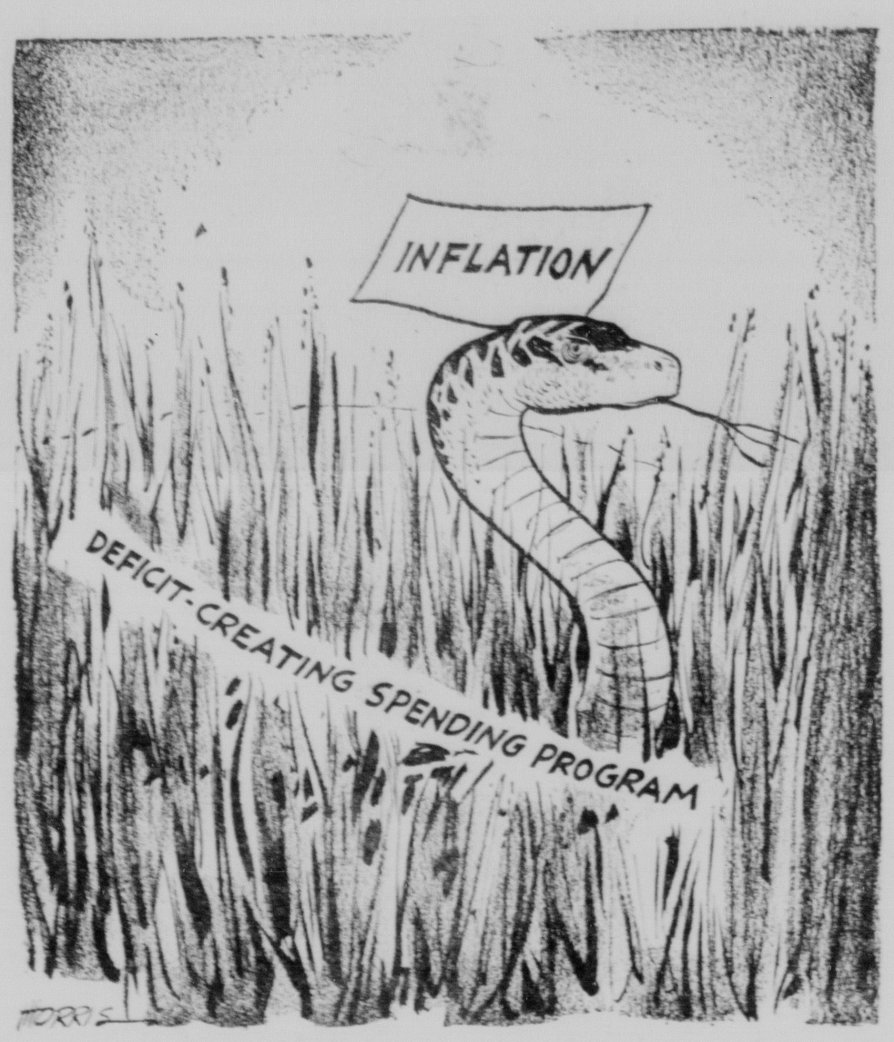
The Snake In The Grass



Business 'Left Out' On Decisions

By Victor Riesel

In most executive suites these days, most business leaders believe they have become "second class citizens" under the Kennedy administration. And many prominent business leaders were talking of declaring war on the President about the time he made his "self-restraint" speech before Congress.

Victor Riesel

There will be "self-restraint" now and no open war on the White House. But there will be no end of resentment against what the businessmen call overwhelming interference in their affairs.

This resentment flared, for example, in one of Arthur Goldberg's conference rooms inside the Labor Department at about 3:30 p.m. on Tuesday, May 16.

IN THAT ROOM were some of the highest officials of corporations now building everything needed for a landing on the moon, or the orbiting of an astronaut or completion of a 17,000 square mile Minuteman base.

Mr. Goldberg had called them together in the windup parley of a series of talks he had had with professors, union chiefs, contractors and military brass—all in search of advice on how to handle missile base strikes.

Just as the President's labor adviser was talking to the businessmen, he was called to the phone.

After all the noise and all the public outcry and all the anger of President Kennedy and Sen. McClellan, 16 craftsmen had just pulled another strike on a Boeing project at Cape Canaveral. Mr. Goldberg said frankly it was embarrassing and something would have to be done.

AT THIS POINT Arch Logan, a Boeing vice president said respectfully, but bluntly, he hoped the government would keep out of this one. The company would see to it that the work continued.

If the 16 craftsmen refused to work, the company would replace them with members of industrial unions. If this was resented by electricians on the base and they went out in support of the craftsmen, then the company would replace the new strikers. But the work would continue, Logan said, if only the government kept its hands off this latest crisis.

A few more phone calls were made and the 16 went back to work. The crisis was over. The story never got out. But Mr. Logan's stand reflected the sentiment of most business executives there.

They believe that any government intervention in labor-management relations, even by the respected Arthur Goldberg, is intervention on the side of labor. This is their point of view—and they say that the opinions of the organized business community simply are not being sought.

They say that no one in the leadership of the National Association of Manufacturers or the Chamber of Commerce has been consulted by anyone in the administration at any time before or after the creation of the 21-man presidential Labor - Management Advisory Committee.

YET, THEY SAY, this committee now is a permanent policy making branch of the executive division of the government.

President Kennedy is modeling it after a similar tri-partite labor-management-public board created in Holland right after the war.

This Dutch board has created vast economic policy. It deliberates. It formulates what becomes broad economic patterns for the nation. It is not simply a strike-settlement body.

It can change the direction of the government. It has, in fact.

Should a member become ill, or resign, or retire, he is replaced. Thus the committee is continuous. This is what President Kennedy and Labor Secretary Goldberg hope to make of the American 21-man board.

When Kennedy opened the first meeting he said, "If what I say sounds a little vague, that's because it is." He added he was not certain what the committee would resolve.

GOLDBERG made it plain that they'd feel their way. But both said that this would become one of the most important committees inside government.

Since that moment, no one in the White House or the Cabinet or the 21-man committee has communicated with the national business groups—nor do the Chamber of Commerce or National Association of Manufacturers expect that they will be consulted on the holding down of the "unjustified price and wage increases" which the President said this nation cannot "afford."

So there is anger and antagonism. And when the threat of international war passes, there will be a domestic war on the industrial and political fronts.

Letters To The Editor

I recently read of a child in Mahoning County being bitten by a loose dog and later had to have rabies serum. They never did locate the dog. That same catastrophe can happen here.

I live in Salem Township, but this situation is commonplace in other districts of Columbiana County. My children, as well as others, have had to have their outside activity limited because of the loose dog situation.

You say, "Call the dog warden." So we call the dog warden of Columbiana County, who informs us that we are to catch the dog, tie it up, and then he will get it.

He also informs us that he works eight hours a day, five days a week and a half day on Saturday. Isn't that just ducky? He wants us, the taxpayers, to pay his salary while we do his work for him. Not only that but he wants all loose dogs to punch a time clock so they can be caught during his working hours. How about that?

I think it is time to call a halt to this type of public service. Who knows when a dog may be rabid? Who knows when dogs are coming around? They are a menace to everyone; not only if you have children but also if you have costly shrubbery. I can understand a dog getting loose once in a while, but not day after day. Just because a dog is licensed doesn't give it the privilege of running loose and becoming a nuisance as well as a possible menace to the neighborhood.

This condition should be corrected. Columbiana County commissioners should note the dog warden's performance and ability, and decide if he is fulfilling his obligations to the public by acting thus. And the Civil Service Board should be notified. He should either perform or resign.

I ask you, who are troubled with loose dogs, to drop a card to your county commissioners. Let them know the situation.

We, the people, elected them. Let we, the people, speak. As taxpayers, we have a right to the public service we pay for.

Out of Germany came two mad rulers in the last half century—men who set out to control the lives of the world and the destination of all peoples.

One was Kaiser Wilhelm and the other Adolph Hitler. Each made an attempt to take the right away from free industry and free peoples by mass murder and devastation of property and slavery. Many nations united to overthrow and rule out this mad attempt. Have you, the little people, forgotten? Especially the new generations. Have we neglected to read history and to realize that no one man or one group can rule the world, that no one faction can dictate as to how he or she may run his or her lives and industry?

It is true that various grievances have come up between labor and industry, resulting in strikes and unemployment. Strikes are only a setback in our way of life. Progress must go on. Shall we ask ourselves as individuals sometimes can we be classified as little dictators, bringing upon ourself hardship, not only to ourselves but our families only because we as individuals think we are being persecuted and under paid. Or is it maybe that we want too much and aren't willing to sacrifice for it?

As an individual, my wants are great. To want is to be ambitious. To be over-ambitious at the expense of your fellow men is a sin. Should we not work together for a better way of life and a free world? In this massive age of invention putting before us the genius of man's ambition have we not allowed ourselves to want and to attempt to dictate to industry, bringing about automation and unemployment? Are we following a mad ruler who could bring about our destruction?

In history, John Alden was asked by Pricilla, "Why not speak for yourself, John?" Why not speak for ourselves? In a free world, industry should be allowed to operate to its best advantage and to make a profit. Man should be allowed to work for his own personal livelihood and sustenance.

Tragedy Of The South

By David Lawrence

Hostility Grows Between Racial Groups

The tragedy of the "Freedom Riders" is not written in the headlines or in the news dispatches about the riots in the South or in the television. Representations in which Negro preachers utter slogans of defiance and Southern officials insist on the law as they see it.

David Lawrence

The real story is in the hearts of men and women, Negroes and whites, as a profound change takes place in normal relations between the two groups.

Letters from people in the South tell of the sad results of agitation — the steady attrition of the good feeling that has hitherto prevailed and the sudden rise of antagonism and hostility.

It is all very well to theorize about the decades of discrimination involved in segregation practices but attempts to change social customs by incitement to violence cannot but leave a regrettable imprint on the lives of people who must continue to live in those same communities.

Oddly enough, the country is witnessing the curious behavior of some demonstrators who happen to be studying for the ministry or are already ordained ministers.

They move in the forefront of the "Freedom Rider" activities or declaim in near-by pulpits. In terms of bitterness they export the Negro populace to take so-called measures of non-violence.

It is strange to hear the vocabulary of combat and coercion being used by men who, it might be thought, would be teaching by example the doctrines of love and reconciliation which Jesus sought to convey in the plea: "Love thin enemy."

The New York Times, in an editorial, touches on a phrase of the same paradox. After declaring that the Freedom Riders have won a "victory" which "most Americans will applaud," the editorial adds significantly:

"All the same, it looks as if this victory can be diminished, or nullified, if the agitators press on through an inflamed atmosphere. They are challenging not only long-held customs, but passionately held feelings. Non-violence that deliberately provokes violence is a logical contradiction."

WHAT IS the "non-violence" tactic that produces outbursts of violence?

One elderly woman, who is a keen observer, writes from Atlanta, Ga., to this correspondent as follows:

"I shan't attempt to argue the merits or demerits of segregation. What has been upsetting me is what is happening to us. Take me, and I am only one of hundreds of thousands of Southerners — and we are all alike. I was brought up to feel quite deeply that courtesy to others was an obligation to myself and the fact that some of those others might not be so fortunate as I only deepened the obligation.

"The sort of thing which is heralded now as 'racial prejudice' simply never occurred to us. A black face was the face of a friend, and if the friend stood in need of help — it was our responsibility to offer that help.

"A black face today, however, is not what it was a few years ago. It is the face of a stranger —and behind it who knows what is going on?

"We have learned what furious, impotent rage is and the miracle is that the South has exercised, and still is exercising, the control that it has.

"The best method of learning is the trolley. There you can quickly learn just how angry a human being can get — and although you are not yourself the sort of person who goes berserk, you can understand the one who does.

"THERE ARE many other places, and times, but let me try to make you see what is a daily, hourly occurrence. You wait at the stop for the trolley. As it slows, Negroes — with only the barest difference between a 'push' and a 'shove' — brush you aside in clumsy haste to show their equality by getting on ahead of you.

"When you get on, there is a Negro on each seat, all down both sides, and every Negro busting with zeal, their eyes glimmering, a grin on each face as they wait for your move.

You stand — after all, it's a free country and the law which says they can sit by you hasn't yet said that you have to sit by them. Then it starts. The snickers, the snide remarks across the aisle or to the opposite end of the car. And every one of them aimed at you. On and on and on. How much of it can you take?

"Various provocative remarks are made — they are common enough — and also: 'We showed them in Congolia. We're gonna show them here. We're gonna have a Congolia of our own right here. They'll learn.'

"I am horrified myself at the gradual change which has taken place in myself but it has been brought about by these 'demonstrators' and the continual nagging of the northern press, radio and TV.

"I do not condone violence but I have learned to understand it and that is knowledge I would give anything not to have."

These words emphasize the dilemma of the hour, irrespective of the constitutional issues involved in the controversy.

Purely Personal

By Truman Twill

I began to drive an automobile when I was 12 years old, yet I have seen only two accidents at the instant of their occurrence. I was the driver in one accident and a passenger in a bus in the other accident. No one was hurt in either case.

Despite the natural law that causes lambs to be born in February, the world is full of surprises, such as a pair of twins born at the Twillery this year on Memorial Day. And girls yet — the best kind.

It stands to reason there must be sun glasses that can be attached to regular glasses without adding so much weight the "nose knows," but in all the years I have been wearing these attachments I have yet to find one that isn't bothersome after a few hours.

A flag flown at half-mast or half-staff, I have learned for the first time may be at any distance from the top. In my ignorance, I had supposed it was supposed to be approximately half way down.

To me the most interesting thing about the 1961 exhibition of high-speed driving at Indianapolis was the fact the little British entry was among the finishers, though it is only a fraction as heavy or powerful as the costly machines that have dominated this classical auto race. It has a rear-engine drive.

One-fifth as many people died in water accidents over the Memorial Day weekend as died in highway accidents, though not more than one-fiftieth as many people went near the water, confirming my belief that boating and swimming are the two most dangerous things to do.

Organized baseball's surprising crop of top-grade rookie talent, thanks to expansion of the American League, goes to show what long has been apparent to casual baseball fans — that reluctance to give the kids a chance to play while the high-priced oldsters were coming to the end of the trail has hurt the game's attractiveness and jeopardized its future.

Down Through The Years

From The Review Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO — Theresa LaNeve was named first honor student of the senior class at Wells High School, Newell.

Someone Must Make The Move

It would be interesting sometime to hear what goes on in one of the high-level meetings between heads of government speaking different languages. It must be as disjointed and awkward as trying to woo a lady in Morse Code.

But in the attempt to understand what President Kennedy is currently doing in Paris and intends to do in Vienna, it first is necessary to acknowledge something not easy for most of us to understand.

In diplomacy, someone must make the first move. There is nothing automatic about the relationship between chiefs of state. Ultimately, whatever they may be able to decide must be decided man to man—a personal decision. That is the reason for summit diplomacy, which never has been well explained.

FORMERLY, international relations were carried on exclusively at the summit level, even though diplomats relayed the messages back and forth. Heads of states were in continuous communication.

Then came the era of goldfish-bowl diplomacy open covenants openly agreed on. Everything that passed between the heads of states had to be duly recorded and discussed, with the effect that international negotiations became paralyzed. Everybody was scared to do anything for fear of a public reaction that might pull the rug from under him before he had finished.

That was the source of the attraction for summit diplomacy. It seemed reasonable to believe that if the top men could come together face to face they might crack the pussyfoot barrier keeping them from trying to agree on anything for fear the folks back home wouldn't like it.

Some governments, including the United States, had become so sprawled out and disjointed that their left hands and right hands weren't coordinated any more. With due respect to John Foster Dulles, he dominated the foreign policy of the United States so strongly from 1953 to his resignation in 1959 that he had more impact on it than Dwight D. Eisenhower, though Mr. Dulles was only the presidential agent in foreign policy.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY has made the move that must be made eventually by every chief executive of the United States. He has taken the first step to reach the personal relationship that must exist between heads of states. Until he knows De Gaulle and Khrushchev, he cannot communicate with them.

It would help to understand what a difficult thing this is at best if we could hear a transcription of the disjointed and stilted conversations that ensue when two cautious men are making guarded statements in language the other cannot understand. But unsatisfactory as it is, it is the best that can be done.

It is curious, indeed, that men should dream of reaching the moon when they haven't learned to talk to one another on earth. It suggests that moon traveling may be a super escape mechanism for frustrated humans.

Mountaineer Stand

Hancock County residents should be taking special note of the 100th anniversary of the Battle of Philippi Saturday.

Besides being the first land battle of the war — and perhaps the only fight in history in which almost 4,000 troops took part without a loss of life — it was a strategic Union victory which combined with subsequent events to lead to emergence of the new state of West Virginia.

The incidents surrounding the Philippi action typified the divided loyalties in Virginia and other border area states. But the economic, political and idealistic thinking of the 40 western counties brought the only major intra-state split which led to creation of a new state during the conflict.

Otherwise the descendants of the Marks and Gardner families of the Chester district still be paying allegiance to Richmond.

Trouble Started In 1638

It is impossible to know how well the U.S. Supreme Court has settled the Sunday-closing issue with its rulings in four blue law test cases. The rulings upheld the blue laws of Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Maryland—not the laws of Ohio, though that might be a secondary effect.

The Ohio law still contains a point of potential disagreement. It says Sunday closing cannot be enforced against persons who "conscientiously observe the seventh day of the week as the sabbath and abstain thereon from doing things prohibited on Sunday."

The U.S. Supreme Court has taken the position that custom has caused Sunday to be the prevailing "rest day" and it is not, therefore, necessary for a state to make exception on religious grounds. It is noteworthy that one of the dissenting opinions insisted that religious scruples could not be swept under the rug "in the interest of enforced Sunday togetherness."

The Sunday closing issue is troublesome. It is of concern to everybody in trade and to everybody in related enterprise. It has been a source of endless puzzlement to law enforcers and the courts. It would be a comfort to think the issue could be settled by a ruling of the U.S. Supreme Court.

But it isn't that easy. Blue laws have been a problem since the time of the Puritans. The first ones date back to 1638.

Problems with Sunday closing laws in the 19th century and the early part of the 20th century make today's problems seem minor by comparison. But here can be no doubt that today's problems have been growing more complicated because of changes in economic and social patterns that make Sunday business more attractive than it used to be.

One thing should be made clear.

The Ohio law, recently streamlined and boiled down to the essential issue of transacting business, will have to stand on its own feet. The U.S. Supreme Court rulings do not automatically cover the Ohio situation.

First, Ohio law enforcers will have to decide how far they want to go. Ohio courts then will have to decide how far it is legal to go. And eventually Ohio public opinion will have to decide how far it wants to go in these matters.

If the courts could settle these matters once and for all, there wouldn't have been all this trouble with blue laws since 1638.

It Could Happen To Anyone

The explanation offered to the House of Commons early in May for the mysterious disappearance of a secret document entrusted to the British admiralty by the U.S. Navy is so preposterous it may very well be true.

The British prime minister doubts that the document was stolen.

He doubts that espionage or treachery could have been involved.

A traitor or a spy would have copied the document and left it intact, to avert suspicion. A thief would have taken the entire file, instead of a single document from the file. Therefore, it may very well have been a case of mysterious disappearance, such as happens to the rest of us all the time.

What we thought we had right here—right here in this pocket—isn't there when we look for it. We retrace our steps. We wrack our brains. Where did we put the thing? Did we put it down somewhere and run to answer the telephone? Or what? It's gone!

As far as anyone can remember, this is the first time a political notable ever made a plea of carelessness in behalf of a government. Perhaps under the circumstances, it was easier to do this than admit that Britain's loosey-goosey security system had let more U.S. secrets fall into the wrong hands.

But the fact remains that what happens to the rest of us isn't supposed to happen to governments. When they start to plead carelessness, they lose the authority that makes the rest of us pay attention to their edicts, especially edicts about secret information.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

"So the government wants to help business, end slump, get corporations going full speed ahead and put more people back to work!" exclaimed Mortimer Topblower. "I heard it that way, too, but it ain't the way it looks in the news.

"Wallops now being landed on biggest corporations in the nation ain't exactly tokens of friendship and best wishes.

"DuPont and General Motors were still taking a compulsory eight-count when Department of Justice announced AT&T was being asked to take off all good conduct medals and come out fighting in purple trunks.

"You could have knocked millions of people over with a busy wire signal when they heard AT&T which ranked up there with the Fairy Godmother, King Arthur, Mothers Day, Horatio Alger and the Purity League was being investigated by Washington.

"Any big corporation that ain't building a five-story wing to hold the necessary lawyers for running a business, helping the economy and trying to solve unemployment is nuts. Company that has 100 acres of shops should have at least 50 acres of attorneys."

"After dealing with duPont and G.M. it looks like America said 'What do we do for an encore' and got AT&T into the act."

Topblower didn't understand what the charges were. Probable allegations are (1) Too many wrong numbers. (2) Giving bad weather forecasts through the company TV predictions. (3) Refusing to go back to the old-fashioned telephone wall-set with crank. (4) Refusal to tell public whether all those men on top of telephone poles are wire repairmen or bird watchers. (It's a tough life if you're in business and doing great.)

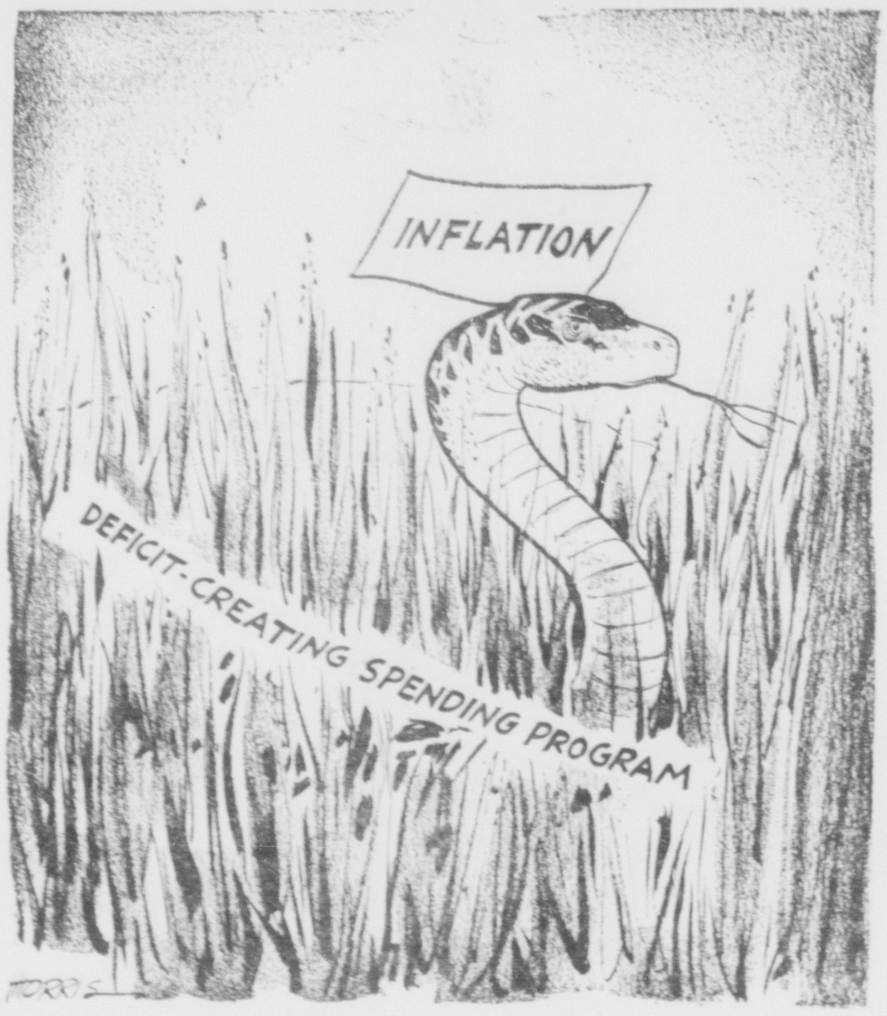
The Snake In The Grass



Business 'Left Out' On Decisions

By Victor Riesel

In most executive suites these days, most business leaders believe they have become "second class citizens" under the Kennedy administration. And many prominent business leaders were talking of declaring war on the President about the time he made his "self-restraint" speech before Congress.

Victor Riesel

There will be "self-restraint" now and no open war on the White House. But there will be no end of resentment against what the businessmen call overwhelming interference in their affairs.

This resentment flared, for example, in one of Arthur Goldberg's conference rooms inside the Labor Department at about 3:30 p.m. on Tuesday, May 16.

IN THAT ROOM were some of the highest officials of corporations now building everything needed for a landing on the moon, or the orbiting of an astronaut or completion of a 17,000 square mile Minuteman base.

Mr. Goldberg had called them together in the windup parley of a series of talks he had had with professors, union chiefs, contractors and military brass—all in search of advice on how to handle missile base strikes.

Just as the President's labor adviser was talking to the businessmen, he was called to the phone.

After all the noise and all the public outcry and all the anger of President Kennedy and Sen. McClellan, 16 craftsmen had just pulled another strike on a Boeing project at Cape Canaveral. Mr. Goldberg said frankly it was embarrassing and something would have to be done.

AT THIS POINT Arch Logan, a Boeing vice president said respectfully, but bluntly, he hoped the government would keep out of this one. The company would see to it that the work continued.

If the 16 craftsmen refused to cross the picket lines, Logan said, the company would replace them with members of industrial unions. If this was resented by electricians on the base and they went out in support of the craftsmen, then the company would replace the new strikers. But the work would continue, Logan said, if only the government kept its hands off this latest crisis.

A few more phone calls were made and the 16 went back to work. The crisis was over. The story never got out. But Mr. Logan's stand reflected the sentiment of most business executives there.

They believe that any government intervention in labor-management relations, even by the respected Arthur Goldberg, is intervention on the side of labor. This is their point of view—and they say that the opinions of the organized business community simply are not being sought.

They say that no one in the leadership of the National Association of Manufacturers or the Chamber of Commerce has been consulted by anyone in the administration at any time before or after the creation of the 21-man presidential Labor - Management Advisory Committee.

YET, THEY SAY, this committee now is a permanent policy making branch of the executive division of the government.

President Kennedy is modeling it after a similar tri-partite labor-management-public board created in Holland right after the war.

This Dutch board has created vast economic policy. It deliberates. It formulates what becomes broad economic patterns for the nation. It is not simply a strike-settlement body.

It can change the direction of the government. It has, in fact.

Should a member become ill, or resign, or retire, he is replaced. Thus the committee is continuous. This is what President Kennedy and Labor Secretary Goldberg hope to make of the American 21-man board.

When Kennedy opened the first meeting he said, "If what I say sounds a little vague, that's because it is." He added he was not certain what the committee would resolve.

GOLDBERG made it plain that they'd feel their way. But both said that this would become one of the most important committees inside government.

Since that moment, no one in the White House or the Cabinet or the 21-man committee has communicated with the national business groups—nor do the Chamber of Commerce or National Association of Manufacturers expect that they will be consulted on the holding down of the "unjustified price and wage increases" which the President said this nation cannot "afford."

So there is anger and antagonism. And when the threat of international war passes, there will be a domestic war on the industrial and political fronts.

Letters To The Editor

I recently read of a child in Mahoning County being bitten by a loose dog and later had to have rabies serum. They never did locate the dog. That same catastrophe can happen here.

I live in Salem Township, but this situation is commonplace in other districts of Columbiana County. My children, as well as others, have had to have their outside activity limited because of the loose dog situation.

You say, "Call the dog warden." So we call the dog warden of Columbiana County, who informs us that we are to catch the dog, tie it up, and then he will get it.

He also informs us that he works eight hours a day, five days a week and a half day on Saturday. Isn't that just ducky? He wants us, the taxpayers, to pay his salary while we do his work for him. Not only that but he wants all loose dogs to punch a time clock so they can be caught during his working hours. How about that?

I think it is time to call a halt to this type of public service. Who knows when a dog may be rabid? Who knows when dogs are coming around? They are a menace to everyone, not only if you have children, but also if you have livestock. I can understand a dog getting loose once in a while, but not day after day. Just because a dog is licensed doesn't give it the privilege of running loose and becoming a nuisance as well as a possible menace to the neighborhood.

This condition should be corrected. Columbiana County commissioners should note the dog warden's performance and ability, and decide if he is fulfilling his obligations to the public by acting thus. And the Civil Service Board should be notified. He should either perform or resign.

I ask you, who are troubled with loose dogs, to drop a card to your county commissioners. Let them know the situation.

We, the people, elected them. Let we, the people, speak. As taxpayers, we have a right to the public service we pay for.

Out of Germany came two mad rulers in the last half century—men who set out to control the lives of the world and the destination of all peoples.

One was Kaiser Wilhelm and the other Adolph Hitler. Each made an attempt to take the right away from free industry and free peoples by mass murder and devastation of property and slavery. Many nations united to overthrow and rule out this mad attempt. Have you, the little people, forgotten? Especially the new generations. Have we neglected to read history and to realize that no one man or one group can rule the world, that no one faction can dictate as to how he or she may run his or her lives and industry?

It is true that various grievances have come up between labor and industry, resulting in strikes and unemployment. Strikes are only a setback in our way of life. Progress must go on. Shall we ask ourselves as individuals sometimes can we be classified as little dictators, bringing upon ourself hardship, not only to ourselves but our families only because we as individuals think we are being persecuted and underpaid. Or is it maybe that we want too much and aren't willing to sacrifice for it?

As an individual, my wants are great. To want is to be ambitious. To be over-ambitious at the expense of your fellow men is a sin. Should we not work together for a better way of life and a free world? In this massive age of invention putting before us the genius of man's ambition, have we not allowed ourselves to want and to attempt to dictate to industry, bringing about automation and unemployment? Are we following a mad ruler who could bring about our destruction?

In history, John Alden was asked by Priscilla, "Why not speak for yourself, John?" Why not speak for ourselves? In a free world, industry should be allowed to operate to its best advantage and to make a profit. Man should be allowed to work for his own personal livelihood and sustenance.

Tragedy Of The South

By David Lawrence

Hostility Grows Between Racial Groups

The tragedy of the "Freedom Riders" is not written in the headlines or in the news dispatches about the riots in the South or in the television. Representations in which Negro preachers utter slogans of defiance and Southern officials insist on the law as they see it.

David Lawrence

The real story is in the hearts of men and women, Negroes and whites, as a profound change takes place in normal relations between the two groups.

Letters from people in the South tell of the sad results of agitation — the steady attrition of the good feeling that has hitherto prevailed and the sudden rise of antagonism and hostility.

It is all very well to theorize about the decades of discrimination involved in segregation practices but attempts to change social customs by incitement to violence cannot but leave a regrettable imprint on the lives of people who must continue to live in those same communities.

Oddly enough, the country is witnessing the curious behavior of some demonstrators who happen to be studying for the ministry or are already ordained ministers.

They move in the forefront of the "Freedom Rider" activities or declaim in near-by pulpits. In terms of bitterness they exhort the Negro populace to take so-called measures of non-violence.

It is strange to hear the vocabulary of combat and coercion being used by men who, it might be thought, would be teaching by example the doctrines of love and reconciliation which Jesus sought to convey in the plea "Love thine enemy."

The New York Times, in an editorial, touches on a phrase of the same paradox. After declaring that the Freedom Riders have won a "victory" which "most Americans will applaud," the editorial adds significantly:

"All the same, it looks as if this victory can be diminished, or nullified, if the agitators press on through an inflamed atmosphere. They are challenging not only long-held customs, but passionately held feelings. Non-violence that deliberately provokes violence is a logical contradiction."

WHAT IS the "non-violence" tactic that produces outbursts of violence?

One elderly woman, who is a keen observer, writes from Atlanta, Ga., to this correspondent as follows:

"I shan't attempt to argue the merits or demerits of segregation. What has been upsetting me is what is happening to us. Take me, and I am only one of hundreds of thousands of Southerners — and we are all alike. I was brought up to feel quite deeply that courtesy to others was an obligation to myself and the fact that some of those others might not be so fortunate as I only deepened the obligation.

"The sort of thing which is heralded now as 'racial prejudice' simply never occurred to us. A black face was the face of a friend, and if the friend stood in need of help — it was our responsibility to offer that help.

"A black face today, however, is not what it was a few years ago. It is the face of a stranger —and behind it who knows what is going on?

"We have learned what furious, impotent rage is and the miracle is that the South has exercised, and still is exercising, the control that it has.

"The best method of learning is the trolley. There you can quickly learn just how angry a human being can get — and although you are not yourself the sort of person who goes berserk, you can understand the one who does.

"THERE ARE many other places, and times, but let me try to make you see what is a daily, hourly occurrence. You wait at the stop for the trolley. As it slows, Negroes — with only the barest difference between a 'push' and a 'shove' — brush you aside in clumsy haste to show their equality by getting on ahead of you.

"When you get on, there is a Negro on each seat, all down both sides, and every Negro busting with zeal, their eyes glimmering a grin on each face as they wait for your move.

"You stand — after all, it's a free country and the law which says they can sit by you hasn't yet said that you have to sit by them. Then it starts. The snickers, the snide remarks across the aisle or to the opposite end of the car. And every one of them aimed at you. On and on and on. How much of it can you take?

"Various provocative remarks are made — they are common enough — and also: 'We showed them in Congolia. We're gonna show them here. We're gonna have a Congolia of our own right here. They'll learn.'

"I am horrified myself at the gradual change which has taken place in myself but it has been brought about by these 'demonstrators' and the continual nagging of the northern press, radio and TV.

"I do not condone violence but I have learned to understand it and that is knowledge I would give anything not to have."

These words emphasize the dilemma of the hour, irrespective of the constitutional issues involved in the controversy.

Purely Personal

By Truman Twill

I began to drive an automobile when I was 12 years old, yet I have seen only two accidents at the instant of their occurrence. I was the driver in one accident and a passenger in a bus in the other accident. No one was hurt in either case.

Despite the natural law that causes lambs to be born in February, the world is full of surprises, such as a pair of twins born at the Twillery this year on Memorial Day. And girls yet — the best kind.

It stands to reason there must be sun glasses that can be attached to regular glasses without adding so much weight the "nose knows," but in all the years I have been wearing these attachments I have yet to find one that isn't bothersome after a few hours.

A flag flown at half-mast or half-staff, I have learned for the first time may be at any distance from the top. In my ignorance, I had supposed it was supposed to be approximately half way down.

To me the most interesting thing about the 1961 exhibition of high-speed driving at Indianapolis was the fact the little British entry was among the finishers, though it is only a fraction as heavy or powerful as the costly machines that have dominated this classical auto race. It has a rear-engine drive.

One-fifth as many people died in water accidents over the Memorial Day weekend as died in highway accidents, though not more than one-fiftieth as many people went near the water, confirming my belief that boating and swimming are the two most dangerous things to do.

Organized baseball's surprising crop of top-grade rookie talent, thanks to expansion of the American League, goes to show what long has been apparent to casual baseball fans — that reluctance to give the kids a chance to play while the high-priced oldsters were coming to the end of the trail has hurt the game's attractiveness and jeopardized its future.

EAST PALESTINE — Planned or nearly completed construction adds up to nearly a million-dollar building boom, a survey of work and May building permits showed today.

Over $100,000 in construction was shown in permits issued in May, Jacob Istnick, secretary of the City Planning Commission, said today. The projects include four private homes and a number of garages and porches.

One private contractor had indicated plans are being completed for some 15 new homes west and northwest of the city.

The previous record depth for an Ohio well was 8,031 feet, reached last week in Mahoning County.

There was no indication whether the well of the Marshall farm will yield a substantial production of gas or oil.

Gothic Madonna Look Given President's Wife

By FRANCES LEWINE

PARIS (AP)—A leading French hairdresser gave Jacqueline Kennedy what he called a "Gothic madonna" look Wednesday night, clipping more than an inch from her locks and pinning a tambourine-shaped wigpiece and a dazzling diamond on the back of her head.

For tonight's state dinner in the fabulous Hall of Mirrors at the Palace of Versailles, the hairdresser, Alexander, said he would style the U.S. First Lady's coiffeur in keeping with the scene, a style of the period of Louis XIV.

Four diamond flame clips will give her a "fairy-like air," Alexander said.

Mrs. Kennedy changed her wardrobe plans and appeared Wednesday night in the pink and white straw lace gown she had originally intended to wear to Versailles.

Fashion experts immediately speculated that she had some new, unpublicized gown she plans to show off tonight.

Baldine Takes Oath As Commissioner

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Joseph J. Baldine, six - time Democratic mayor of Hubbard, was sworn in as a Trumbull County commissioner Wednesday, concluding a legal battle which started last November. He succeeded Dr. W. A. James, Warren Republican, who won over Baldine by 29 votes in the official vote as reported by the Board of Elections.

Baldine contested Dr. James' election to a second term on grounds of irregularities in absentee balloting at the November election. Common Pleas Judge W. W. Badger of Holmes County, sitting here by special assignment, declared Baldine the winner by 11 votes following a lengthy hearing in which the jurist threw out some of the contested ballots.

May Claims Of Jobless Up

Despite a decrease in new unemployment compensaion claims, the total claims processed during May in the East Liverpool office of the Ohio State Employment Service reached a year's high.

A total of 4,452 claims were handled by the office last month, an increase of 393 over the previous peak in April of 4,059, Harry L. Dinsmore, manager, reported.

New claims dropped 135 from April's high of 798 to 573, including 81 filed under the federal extension program and 492 regular claims, Dinsmore said. Continuing claims climbed from 3,351 in April to 3,879, a boost of 528. The continuing claims included 731 on the extension program and 3,148 on the regular basis.

Dinsmore said the office has registered 1,221 as seeking work and was able to fill 35 jobs last month.

Compensation payments in April totaled $100,548, including $5,324 paid under the federal program, Dinsmore said. The April payment boosts the total distributed through the local office to $398,657.

Dinsmore reminded those seeking work and employers desiring to use the office's services that it now remains open until 7:30 p. m. on Thursdays.

Construction At Palestine Hits Million

EAST PALESTINE — Planned or nearly completed construction adds up to nearly a million-dollar building boom, a survey of work and May building permits showed today.

Over $100,000 in construction was shown in permits issued in May, Jacob Istnick, secretary of the City Planning Commission, said today. The projects include four private homes and a number of garages and porches.

One private contractor had indicated plans are being completed for some 15 new homes west and northwest of the city.

Meanwhile, excavation began this week near the high school in the start of one phase of a $650,000 school improvement program, and footer was laid at the junior high school for a new gymnasium. The old gym will be used for a cafeteria.

The J. G. Madden & Sons is readying for work on a $21,000 building at the municipal power plant to house a new switchgear in a major improvement.

Work is being completed on a new service station at the E. Taggart St. shopping plaza, to be leased to the Shell Oil Co. of Columbiana.

Gas Well Is Deepest Ever Drilled In Ohio

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP) — A gas well in western Guernsey County reached a depth of 8,500 feet Wednesday, making it the deepest well ever drilled in the state.

The well, being sunk by the Lake Shore Pipe Line Co. of Ashtubula, is located on the William Marshall farm near the Muskingum County line.

The previous record depth for an Ohio well was 8,031 feet, reached last week in Mahoning County.

There was no indication whether the well of the Marshall farm will yield a substantial production of gas or oil.

Gothic Madonna Look Given President's Wife

By FRANCES LEWINE

PARIS (AP)—A leading French hairdresser gave Jacqueline Kennedy what he called a "Gothic madonna" look Wednesday night, clipping more than an inch from her locks and pinning a tambourine-shaped wigpiece and a dazzling diamond on the back of her head.

For tonight's state dinner in the fabulous Hall of Mirrors at the Palace of Versailles, the hairdresser, Alexander, said he would style the U.S. First Lady's coiffeur in keeping with the scene, a style of the period of Louis XIV.

Four diamond flame clips will give her a "fairy-like air," Alexander said.

Mrs. Kennedy changed her wardrobe plans and appeared Wednesday night in the pink and white straw lace gown she had originally intended to wear to Versailles.

Fashion experts immediately speculated that she had some new, unpublicized gown she plans to show off tonight.

Baldine Takes Oath As Commissioner

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Joseph J. Baldine, six - time Democratic mayor of Hubbard, was sworn in as a Trumbull County commissioner Wednesday, concluding a legal battle which started last November. He succeeded Dr. W. A. James, Warren Republican, who won over Baldine by 29 votes in the official vote as reported by the Board of Elections.

Baldine contested Dr. James' election to a second term on grounds of irregularities in absentee balloting at the November election. Common Pleas Judge W. W. Badger of Holmes County, sitting here by special assignment, declared Baldine the winner by 11 votes following a lengthy hearing in which the jurist threw out some of the contested ballots.

Lobbying-Control Group For Ohio May Be Urged

By PHIL GUNBY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A legislative committee is expected to recommend tonight that Ohio become the first state in the union to set up a commission to control lobbying—both by public officials and those representing private interests.

Weary members of the House Government Operations Committee called it a night shortly after midnight, but agreed to make the lobbying bill the first order of business at tonight's meeting.

Definitions vary, but essentially lobbying is an attempt to convince a lawmaker to go along with your point of view.

The bill before the committee is a revised version of one introduced before Easter with the backing of Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

Ironically, most of the Republican legislative majority have made it their baby, attempting to tie it in with contentions that at least two members of DiSalle's cabinet have been excessive in their efforts to bring legislators around to their point of view.

Both of those cabinet members —Highway Director Everett S. Preston and Welfare Director Mary Gorman—were present for the hearing that wound up early this morning. Both asserted that they feel it is a state official's duty to emphasize how legislative cuts in a department's fund could affect the department's programs.

House Speaker Roger Cloud, R-Logan, was present while Preston was replying to a steady stream of questions from Republican committee members. Cloud asserted that, in 14 years in the legislature, he's "never seen it (so-called lobbying by state executive officials) practiced to the extent I've seen it this session."

However, House Minority Leader James A. Lantz, D-Fairfield, also present, contended that local officials such as some county engineers also had exerted pressure on legislators this session, and recommended that any controlling commission regulate them, too.

The committee is expected to recommend out a bill tonight which would regulate all "public" officials who might attempt to influence lawmakers. This is an amendment. The bill originally said "state" officials.

The revised bill calls for a bipartisan, six-member commission, which would receive no salary but be paid expenses. Two members would be state senators, two state representatives andt wo appointed by the governor.

Measure Faces Pitfalls

Ohio House Sifts Plan To Create 24th District

By ART PARKS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio House today will act on a proposal to create a 24th congressional district in southwestern Ohio, but, even should the House approve it, the measure faces many pitfalls.

The House version of redistricting on the basis of the 1960 U.S. census would form a 24th Ohio district by taking Butler County from the 3rd District, Warren County from the 7th and Clermont County from the 6th. The idea is to scale down the size of the present 3rd District which lumps Montgomery and Butler counties together for a total district population of more than 726,000, largest in the state.

Ohio now has 23 congressional districts. Unless the Republican-led legislature and Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle can see eye-to-eye by the end of the legislative session on redistricting, Ohio will elect its 24th congressman statewide in November 1962.

The General Assembly started its 22nd work week Wednesday, two days late because of the Memorial Day holiday. It is beginning a drive for adjournment of working sessions late this month.

Highlights of legislative action Wednesday:

The House passed unanimously and sent to the Senate a bill to extend to trailers the penalties against house burglaries. The measure applies to both inhabited and uninhabited trailers.

The Senate defeated, 16-18, a House-approved bill to permit all qualified voters in a village to vote on any proposal to annex any portion of a village to an adjacent city. Under the present law, which still stands as a result of the Senate vote, only those voters in a village area which a city proposes to annex may vote on the issue.

The Senate virtually assured a vote by the Ohio electorate next fall on a constitutional amendment which would permit the legislature, in event of enemy attack, to pass laws assuring continuity of state government. The Senate adopted a House-approved resolution on the subject. The issue will go on the ballot if the House approves Senate changes.

The House completed passage of an act to reduce from 60 to 55 per cent the vote needed for approval of school tax levies in special elections or primary elections in odd-numbered years.

The Senate completed action on a House bill to permit border townships in Ohio to contract with local governments in adjoining states for fire protection.

Montreal, Quebec, claims to have reached almost the saturation point, so far as sales of television sets to its citizens are concerned. Approximately 95 per cent of Montreal's homes have TV sets.

The Carroll Club, Inc., obtained authorization to remodel a building at 688 Lincoln Ave., the home of Carroll Council 509, Knights of Columbus. The work is estimated to cost $2,500.

Only one new home was listed in last month's permits. D. W. Wallace obtained authorization to erect a brick house and garage at 869 Fairview St. He estimated the cost at $1,440, explaining he expects to utilize mainly used materials salvaged from other buildings.

Eugene A. Black obtained a permit to erect a two-room building on Harvey Ave. estimated to cost $2,000.

$100 Plate Dinner At Capital

Old, New GOP Heroes Set For Affair Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The old and the new in Republican heroes will bask in the GOP limelight at a $100 a plate dinner here tonight.

The long-time GOP breadwinner, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who held the presidency in Republican hands for eight years, is expected to castigate the Kennedy administration's spending and deficit financing.

The new subject of Republican cheers, John G. Tower, first Republican to be elected to the Senate by Texas voters, is scheduled to be on hand. No speech is planned for him, but he may be called on for brief remarks to nearly 6,000 Republicans in the National Guard armory.

Tower, 35, and a college professor threatens to eclipse Eisenhower as the Republican man of the hour during the two-day session of the GOP National Committee. Tower was elected last Saturday to fill the Senate seat vacated by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

In his dinner speech tonight Eisenhower is expected to skirt delicately around the problems of American foreign policy, in view of the approaching meeting between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

The GOP National Committee session was to be called to order this afternoon. Top item on this afternoon's agenda was a report by Ray Bliss, Ohio state chairman, on the committee's intensive survey of big-city voting to discover why Republicans' fare badly in big cities.

The election of a new chairman was scheduled for a session starting Friday morning.

The job was believed sure to go to Rep. William E. Miller of New York, who won his spurs by helping bring about substantial GOP gains in Congress last November as head of the House Republican Campaign Committee.

Theater

When the freeway takes Route 30 traffic out of the business district, parking will be allowed on both sides of Market and Dresden, he said. That change should mean 46 additional spaces, he said.

As it has been estimated the city needs 100 additional spaces, the addition of the Ceramic lot and the extra spaces on Dresden and Market should fill the need, he commented.

The mayor also pointed out that since most of the existing off-street parking spaces are located along 6th St. he feels it is desirable that the city also provide parking facilities in the area of the theater property.

The existing lots to which he referred are the Community Parking Lot at E. 6th and Walnut Sts. and two city-operated facilities near City Hall.

"I feel the income from the property will pay the cost over a reasonable period of time, without utilization of tax money," the mayor continued. "It's now an idle piece of property — no individual or business is being dispossessed. The building was erected primarily for theater purposes and I feel it is not ideal for other business use without expensive remodeling. With other business buildings empty in our downtown area, I feel no one would acquire it and remodel it for business use.

"With the cut in theater business caused by drive-ins and television, I feel it never would be used again for theater purposes. I also considered the fact that Council didn't 'railroad' this legislation, but took the full three readings allowed by law to give the people an opportunity to voice their protests or speak in favor of acquiring the property. Council acted in a fair manner.

"We have been talking for a long time about the need for more off-street parking. I don't think the contrary arguments in this case are against off-street parking. I think it's that some of the people don't favor acquisition of the Ceramic Theater for that purpose."

It provides the city will borrow $60,000 for the project — $45,000 to acquire the towering old landmark from heirs of the Tallman Estate and $15,000 to raze the structure, prepare the site, lay blacktop and install meters.

The site is expected to provide spaces for about 40 autos. The project is designed to be self-liquidating, with income from the meters retiring the debt in 10 years.

In the next step, Council will consider legislation authorizing Safety - Service Director Lee Copenhaver to negotiate the purchase with the Tallman Heirs. That resolution probably will be considered at Council's next regular session Monday night.

Since the ordinance the mayor approved clears the way for issuance of notes for a one-year period, to be retired when the bonds are sold in 1962, negotiation for the sale of the notes will be another step to be taken soon.

State law says the city cannot sign a contract until the funds to cover the cost are "on hand or in the process of collection." That means action on the resolution authorizing the director to make the purchase and the negotiations for the note issue probably will run concurrently.

However, Council may not approve the final legislation until mid-July if split votes require it to be placed on three readings, as was the case with the ordinance providing for financing of the project.

The initial legislation got first reading, 5-2, at the meeting April 17. On second reading May 1, the vote was 6-1. The split was 4-3 on the final reading.

First plans for the Ceramic purchase were announced on March 21, when Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper advised Council the Tallman Heirs had signed an agreement accepting the city's offer.

The lot fronts 98 feet on E. 4th St. and is 130 feet deep. Crook Alley runs along the east side of the theater property and E. Church Ln. is in the rear.

When the city first put out feelers to the Tallman Estate on the purchase shortly after the first of the year, the overall price was set at $90,000, including $30,000 for equipment and $60,000 for the building itself. However, in the intervening weeks, the heirs shaved their price, meanwhile deciding to dispose of the equipment separately.

By using Crook Alley as a shortcut, shoppers will be only 260 feet away from the heart of the business district when they park on the Ceramic lot.

In part of the negotiations and planning, Council consulted with the downtown improvement committee of the East Liverpool Merchants Association. One of the committee's principal aims is to provide additional off-street parking space in the business area.

An ELMA committee met with the mayor at luncheon last Friday to urge that he approve the measure. There was a general discussion, but the mayor did not indicate what action he intended to take.

When the ordinance first reached his desk, the mayor said he intended to study the project thoroughly before acting.

employes and 12 in the commercial department locally.

Carlisle Milner, Ohio Bell's personnel vice president, said at Cleveland the cost to the company was estimated at about $2,750,000 per year.

Martin J. Hughes, CWA director, said the agreement will boost union members purchasing power by $3,500,000. He estimated the increases averaged about 7 cents per hour.

Milner added the increases "have substantially offset the additional revenue effect of the 1959 rate increases."

The existing three - year contract, negotiated May 29, 1960, specified two wage reopeners at 12-month intervals. Another review of wage schedules can be made a year from now.

Included in the basic pay increases were numerous other contract modifications affecting pay scales. Wage progression schedules for telephone operators were shortened, resulting in additional increases for some employes on certain steps of the progression schedule.

A number of other job classifications were upgraded for wage treatment and the wage classification of 32 smaller Ohio Bell towns was upgraded, bringing about a higher wage level for all employes working in those locations.

All phone operators will reach maximum rates in 5½ years instead of 6 under the new agreement. The contract is not subject to union ratification. The increases are effective as of last Sunday.

Local data was announced by T. Fred Edwards, Ohio Bell's manager in East Liverpool.

Youth Injured When Motorbike Ditches

A 16-year-old district youth was injured when thrown from his motorbike as it went into a ditch on the Smiths Ferry-Calcutta Rd. Wednesday night about 7.

Larry Yost, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Yost of R. D. 2, is in "fairly good" condition today at City Hospital with abrasions of the face, nose, arms and back and possible fractured ribs.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon said Yost, headed west about a half mile from Calcutta, rounded a curve and came upon an auto making a left turn in his path.

Yost told officers he swerved off the road to avoid a collision and his vehicle went into a ditch.

from the President's brother after regular drivers refused to drive the bus from Birmingham to Montgomery, saying they feared for their safety.

Cruitt said the attorney general asked him if he couldn't get someone else to drive the bus, or drive it himself. Then, he continued, Kennedy suggested he get a Negro driver if the regular white drivers wouldn't move it.

After he told Kennedy no Negro drivers were available, the bus official said, Kennedy commented: "Well, hell, you can look for one, can't you?"

Several regular schedules were canceled before a Greyhound driver finally brought the bus to Montgomery, under heavy Highway Patrol escort to the city limits.

The Freedom Riders were attacked at the Montgomery bus station by a jeering mob of white persons and about 20 persons were injured during the rioting.

Defense attorneys called several police officers who told of precautions they said were taken. They said there had been no rumblings of possible violence prior to the arrival of the bus and said police were hurried to the station once the trouble started.

Seigenthaler, of Washington, D.C., was among those beaten during the violence. He testified he saw bus riders slugged and clubbed, but, in answer to a question, said he did not call police when the violence erupted.

At one point in his interrogation of Seigenthaler, the defense attorney told the judge he was trying to determine whether Justice Department officials had been working with the Congress of Racial Equality "and pushing these riders through here."

Seigenthaler said, "I can assure you that they did not."

Calvin Whitesell, attorney for the police, filed the motion for a restraining order against Freedom Riders just as the court recessed its third long day of testimony. Named in the complaint were the Congress of Racial Equality, sponsor of the original Freedom Riders group; the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; the Students of Nashville (Tenn.) Non-Violent Movement; and the Montgomery County Jail Association.

In Jackson, Miss., a county penal farm superintendent was suspended pending an investigation into charges that Freedom Riders had been mistreated at his camp.

Jean Thompson of New Orleans accused the official, Max Thomas of slapping her in the face and breaking her glasses. She also said Thomas hit another Negro Freedom Rider, Henry Thomas, a student at Howard University in Washington, D.C. Earlier, another rider, the Rev. C. T. Vivian, complained that guards had beaten him for not addressing them as "sir."

Miss Thompson bond and flew to New Orleans where she said the Negroes of Mississippi are backing the Freedom Riders despite statements to the contrary by Gov. Ross Barnett and other state officials. She said that she was undaunted by her week of imprisonment and added: "I'm going to keep on until we win."

A group calling itself the Cornell University Freedom Walk Committee threatened to swamp Jackson jails with riders.

The threat bounced off Jackson officials who promised plenty of jail space for all who desired it.

From Yale came a petition signed by 307 faculty members and administrators decrying the arrests and convictions of the Freedom Riders.

Elsewhere on the racial front:

A group of Virginia Union University students announced plans for a Freedom Rider expedition into the South within the next few days.

John McCloud, Negro Montgomery postal worker, told the FBI that his life had been threatened after he told of watching a mob in action during a race riot May 20.

North Carolina's Pupil Assignment Act was challenged in a federal suit filed in Raleigh by 66 Negroes who contended that the act uses race as its "controlling standard."

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Sidney Mize set June 12 for hearing a suit by a Negro seeking admittance to the all-white University of Mississippi. The judge Wednesday declined to immediately order the institution to admit the Negro, James H. Meredith, 28.

Griffith-Ortega Title Match Set Saturday Night

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Welterweight challenger Gaspar Ortega of Mexico in eight years of boxing has never had a chance at a title but he gets the big shot Saturday night.

He meets world champion Emile Griffith of New York in a 15-round nationally televised match at the Olympic Auditorium. And speaking through an interpreter, the 25-year-old Tijuana veteran said with great solemnity:

Gary Daughterty Will Head Wells Student Council

Gary Daugherty has been elevated to the presidency of the Student Council of Wells High School in Newell for the 1961-62 term.

Daugherty, a junior, served as vice president during the past year.

Miss Carole Wurzel was re-elected secretary. Rick Webb was elected vice president and Mickey Staley treasurer.

The officers were elected by a vote of the senior high students.

Plans were discussed for the next term, including a council project. No decision was reached, however, on the project.

Activities of the Student Council during the past year were reviewed. The project was beautification of Memorial Stadium and erection of a fence.

Phone Firm Repairs Cable Serving 800

Telephone service was restored to some 800 customers in the Pleasant Heights and LaCroft areas about midnight Wednesday, some 33 hours sooner than expected.

The service was knocked out about 8:30 a. m. yesterday when a main feeder cable was cut at the site of the new highway interchange on W. 8th St.

The Ohio Bell Telephone Co. first thought it would take about 48 hours to restore the service to the homes.

T. Fred Edwards, manager, said the splice was finished between 11:30 p. m. and midnight. He said there still is some more work to do.

Officer

"I can't say it is," the chief replied. "It breaks down the morale of the department. Also it costs the department money to bring out a man to work in his place."

Dr. Jackson testified that when he examined Nott in May 1960 he found high blood pressure and albumen in the urine, both indications of kidney damage, and a history of kidney trouble.

In response to questions he conceded that the officer's physical condition "is directly related to his incapacity to work." "I would say he would probably have future trouble which definitely would interfere with his work," he added.

Nott has a congenital cystic condition of both kidneys which can result in headaches, extreme fatigue and dizziness, the doctor said.

Officer Nott asked the doctor if he might be able to hold a desk job on the department.

"You might be," Dr. Jackson replied. "I'm certain, of course, that there is going to be future trouble."

There was a long discussion between the solicitor and Atty. Ben Berman, a member of the commission, about a city ordinance that grants full pay for a policeman or fireman off duty for 90 calendar days in any year because of illness.

"Is Council telling us that any officer who actually is sick can take 90 days off a year at full pay and the appointing authority cannot take action even if it continues over a protracted time?" Atty. Berman asked.

"I don't think Council believes any one would take advantage of it year after year," the solicitor said. "I believe the ordinance is designed to cover the case of a man who might be sick once in 10 years and the city does not want to work a hardship on his family by cutting off his wages."

"But Council ordinances do not supersede Civil Service law," he added. "They co-exist."

Copenhaver testified briefly about the grounds for removal. He referred to Nott as "a very good officer," but he added: "I'm here to protect the money of the citizens of East Liverpool and the morale of the police department. Based on the opinion of the doctor, I thought it was my duty to let him go."

Nott offered no direct evidence. He was not accompanied by counsel. However he took the stand briefly to say he believes he would be able to continue on duty as a deskman or in another less arduous job than he previously held — as operator of the downtown cruiser.

In addition to Atty. Berman, other members of the commission are Clarence E. Reagle and Donal I. Burcham.

Clothes Taken Down By Good Samaritan

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Wanda Lane of Des Moines called police the other day to report that clothing she valued at $50 had been stolen the night before from the clothes line at her home.

A few minutes lated she called back and asked police to cancel her report. She added: "A good Samaritan took the clothes down and left them in a basket on the back porch."

ting the U.S. course as the situation clears than by speeding off to the summit talks.

Informed sources said both the President and the secretary of state had the recent Cuban invasion fiasco very much in mind and were determined to avoid any mistake on the neighboring Caribbean island. They feel the outcome will affect the whole of U.S.-Latin American affairs.

The United States had several lures to attract Trujillo's successors down the democratic path, a main aim of Kennedy's "alliance for progress" Latin American program.

One is resumption of U.S. aid, cut off when Washington joined the other American Republics last year in breaking diplomatic relations and normal commercial ties with Trujillo. Another is a boost in U.S. sugar purchases. The Dominican economy has been sagging.

The United States could also take a leading role in a move by the hemisphere organization, the Organization of American States, in readmitting a progressive Dominican regime to the American family.

Washington congressional reaction was mixed.

Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla., recommended that U.S. Marines be landed in the Dominican Republic to prevent a Communist takeover.

Floriculturists say crabgrass is not likely to be a problem in bluegrass if the grass is cut two inches high or higher and given moderate fertilization.

from the President's brother after regular drivers refused to drive the bus from Birmingham to Montgomery, saying they feared for their safety.

Cruitt said the attorney general asked him if he couldn't get someone else to drive the bus, or drive it himself. Then, he continued, Kennedy suggested he get a Negro driver if the regular white drivers wouldn't move it.

After he told Kennedy no Negro drivers were available, the bus official said, Kennedy commented: "Well, hell, you can look for one, can't you?"

Several regular schedules were canceled before a Greyhound driver finally brought the bus to Montgomery, under heavy Highway Patrol escort to the city limits.

The Freedom Riders were attacked at the Montgomery bus station by a jeering mob of white persons and about 20 persons were injured during the rioting.

Defense attorneys called several police officers who told of precautions they said were taken. They said there had been no rumblings of possible violence prior to the arrival of the bus and said police were hurried to the station once the trouble started.

Seigenthaler, of Washington, D.C., was among those beaten during the violence. He testified he saw bus riders slugged and clubbed, but, in answer to a question, said he did not call police when the violence erupted.

At one point in his interrogation of Seigenthaler, the defense attorney told the judge he was trying to determine whether Justice Department officials had been working with the Congress of Racial Equality "and pushing these riders through here."

Seigenthaler said, "I can assure you that they did not."

Calvin Whitesell, attorney for the police, filed the motion for a restraining order against Freedom Riders just as the court recessed its third long day of testimony. Named in the complaint were the Congress of Racial Equality, sponsor of the original Freedom Riders group; the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; the Students of Nashville (Tenn.) Non-Violent Movement; and the Montgomery County Jail Association.

In Jackson, Miss., a county penal farm superintendent was suspended pending an investigation into charges that Freedom Riders had been mistreated at his camp.

Jean Thompson of New Orleans accused the official, Max Thomas of slapping her in the face and breaking her glasses. She also said Thomas hit another Negro Freedom Rider, Henry Thomas, a student at Howard University in Washington, D.C. Earlier, another rider, the Rev. C. T. Vivian, complained that guards had beaten him for not addressing them as "sir."

Miss Thompson bond and flew to New Orleans where she said the Negroes of Mississippi are backing the Freedom Riders despite statements to the contrary by Gov. Ross Barnett and other state officials. She said that she was undaunted by her week of imprisonment and added: "I'm going to keep on until we win."

A group calling itself the Cornell University Freedom Walk Committee threatened to swamp Jackson jails with riders.

The threat bounced off Jackson officials who promised plenty of jail space for all who desired it.

From Yale came a petition signed by 307 faculty members and administrators decrying the arrests and convictions of the Freedom Riders.

Elsewhere on the racial front:

A group of Virginia Union University students announced plans for a Freedom Rider expedition into the South within the next few days.

John McCloud, Negro Montgomery postal worker, told the FBI that his life had been threatened after he told of watching a mob in action during a race riot May 20.

North Carolina's Pupil Assignment Act was challenged in a federal suit filed in Raleigh by 66 Negroes who contended that the act uses race as its "controlling standard."

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Sidney Mize set June 12 for hearing a suit by a Negro seeking admittance to the all-white University of Mississippi. The judge Wednesday declined to immediately order the institution to admit the Negro, James H. Meredith, 28.

Griffith-Ortega Title Match Set Saturday Night

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Welterweight challenger Gaspar Ortega of Mexico in eight years of boxing has never had a chance at a title but he gets the big shot Saturday night.

He meets world champion Emile Griffith of New York in a 15-round nationally televised match at the Olympic Auditorium. And speaking through an interpreter, the 25-year-old Tijuana veteran said with great solemnity:

Gary Daughterty Will Head Wells Student Council

Gary Daugherty has been elevated to the presidency of the Student Council of Wells High School in Newell for the 1961-62 term.

Daugherty, a junior, served as vice president during the past year.

Miss Carole Wurzel was re-elected secretary. Rick Webb was elected vice president and Mickey Staley treasurer.

The officers were elected by a vote of the senior high students.

Plans were discussed for the next term, including a council project. No decision was reached, however, on the project.

Activities of the Student Council during the past year were reviewed. The project was beautification of Memorial Stadium and erection of a fence.

Phone Firm Repairs Cable Serving 800

Telephone service was restored to some 800 customers in the Pleasant Heights and LaCroft areas about midnight Wednesday, some 33 hours sooner than expected.

The service was knocked out about 8:30 a. m. yesterday when a main feeder cable was cut at the site of the new highway interchange on W. 8th St.

The Ohio Bell Telephone Co. first thought it would take about 48 hours to restore the service to the homes.

T. Fred Edwards, manager, said the splice was finished between 11:30 p. m. and midnight. He said there still is some more work to do.

Officer

"I can't say it is," the chief replied. "It breaks down the morale of the department. Also it costs the department money to bring out a man to work in his place."

Dr. Jackson testified that when he examined Nott in May 1960 he found high blood pressure and albumen in the urine, both indications of kidney damage, and a history of kidney trouble.

In response to questions he conceded that the officer's physical condition "is directly related to his incapacity to work." "I would say he would probably have future trouble which definitely would interfere with his work," he added.

Nott has a congenital cystic condition of both kidneys which can result in headaches, extreme fatigue and dizziness, the doctor said.

Officer Nott asked the doctor if he might be able to hold a desk job on the department.

"You might be," Dr. Jackson replied. "I'm certain, of course, that there is going to be future trouble."

There was a long discussion between the solicitor and Atty. Ben Berman, a member of the commission, about a city ordinance that grants full pay for a policeman or fireman off duty for 90 calendar days in any year because of illness.

"Is Council telling us that any officer who actually is sick can take 90 days off a year at full pay and the appointing authority cannot take action even if it continues over a protracted time?" Atty. Berman asked.

"I don't think Council believes any one would take advantage of it year after year," the solicitor said. "I believe the ordinance is designed to cover the case of a man who might be sick once in 10 years and the city does not want to work a hardship on his family by cutting off his wages."

"But Council ordinances do not supersede Civil Service law," he added. "They co-exist."

Copenhaver testified briefly about the grounds for removal. He referred to Nott as "a very good officer," but he added: "I'm here to protect the money of the citizens of East Liverpool and the morale of the police department. Based on the opinion of the doctor, I thought it was my duty to let him go."

Nott offered no direct evidence. He was not accompanied by counsel. However he took the stand briefly to say he believes he would be able to continue on duty as a deskman or in another less arduous job than he previously held — as operator of the downtown cruiser.

In addition to Atty. Berman, other members of the commission are Clarence E. Reagle and Donal I. Burcham.

Clothes Taken Down By Good Samaritan

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Wanda Lane of Des Moines called police the other day to report that clothing she valued at $50 had been stolen the night before from the clothes line at her home.

A few minutes lated she called back and asked police to cancel her report. She added: "A good Samaritan took the clothes down and left them in a basket on the back porch."

ting the U.S. course as the situation clears than by speeding off to the summit talks.

Informed sources said both the President and the secretary of state had the recent Cuban invasion fiasco very much in mind and were determined to avoid any mistake on the neighboring Caribbean island. They feel the outcome will affect the whole of U.S.-Latin American affairs.

The United States had several lures to attract Trujillo's successors down the democratic path, a main aim of Kennedy's "alliance for progress" Latin American program.

One is resumption of U.S. aid, cut off when Washington joined the other American Republics last year in breaking diplomatic relations and normal commercial ties with Trujillo. Another is a boost in U.S. sugar purchases. The Dominican economy has been sagging.

The United States could also take a leading role in a move by the hemisphere organization, the Organization of American States, in readmitting a progressive Dominican regime to the American family.

Washington congressional reaction was mixed.

Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla., recommended that U.S. Marines be landed in the Dominican Republic to prevent a Communist takeover.

Floriculturists say crabgrass is not likely to be a problem in bluegrass if the grass is cut two inches high or higher and given moderate fertilization.

Nation's Largest Airline Merger Goes Into Effect

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's largest airline merger goes into effect today with the absorption of Capital Airlines by United Air Lines.

The merger with fifth-ranking Capital moves United from second into undisputed first place in the industry, well ahead of American Airlines. It reduces the list of domestic trunk airlines from 12 to 11.

The result is an organization of 30,000 employes, serving 117 cities on 18,000 miles of routes. They extend through the East, the South, the Midwest and across the U.S. midsection to every major city on the Pacific Coast.

Never a profitable airline—in 33 years it paid only one cash dividend and two 5 per cent stock dividends—Capital was forced into merger to avoid foreclosure on the fleet of Viscount airplanes purchased in England from Vickers-Armstrongs, Ltd.

Vickers halted its suit to collect a $34 million debt in view of the merger agreement provisions.

The merger will not be effective legally until the close of business today.

Air conditioning is used in machine shops to prevent temperature changes that cause precision parts to expand or contract.

Bucs 'Double Up' On Braves, 9-1

Gibbon Sharp; Giants Win

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Happy times have returned to the Pittsburgh Pirates in two ways.

The Bucs snapped a five-game losing streak by trouncing Milwaukee 9-1 Wednesday night and Joe Gibbon pitched his first complete game in the majors.

Following the game the big southpaw said, "It was great." "I guess this puts me over the hump. I hope now I can take my regular turn every four or five days."

Gibbon said the thought of going the distance didn't occur to him until the sixth or seventh inning, and when he did think about it, he tried to push it out of his mind.

The 26-year-old hurler gave up only six hits — five scattered singles and a home run clout by Hank Aaron in the eighth.

The famished Pirates had a real feast on Brave pitching, slamming out 14 hits including eight doubles.

Dick Stuart doubled in two runs in the first inning and doubles by Bill Mazeroski and Gino Cimoli pushed over another run in the second.

Two base hits by Mazeroski and Gibbon were the big blows in the fifth inning when the Bucs scored four runs.

Two more Pirate runs came across in the seventh on a double by Hal Smith, an error, sacrifice, walk and Dick Groat's single.

Gibbon walked three and fanned 10 in picking up his fourth victory against two defeats. He struck out Eddie Mathews four times.

He said he got the third strike on Matthews on fast balls twice and on sliders the other two times.

Milwaukee starter Warren Spahn was yanked in the fifth after the Bucs racked him for eight hits. He suffered his fourth defeat in looking for the sixth victory.

The two-game series closes out tonight with Harvey Haddix 3-1 going against Lew Burdette 4-3.

The Cincinnati Reds, winning their sixth in a row as relievers Bill Henry and Jim Brosnan saved starter Joey Jay's sixth straight victory, beat Los Angeles, 8-7 Wednesday night and retained a tie with San Francisco for the National League. The defeat dropped the Dodgers a full game behind the Reds and Giants, who defeated St. Louis 3-2 in an afternoon game.

Pittsburgh beat Milwaukee and Warren Spahn 9-1, and the Chicago Cubs defeated Philadelphia 5-4.

The Reds blew three leads at Los Angeles before Henry and Brosnan moved in. A two-out single by Jerry Lynch brought home the winning run in the ninth.

Gene Freese's second homer, a two-run shot off losing reliever Dick Farrell (4-4), made it 7-5 in the eighth. But Jay (6-3) then gave up a two-out home run by John Roseboro in the bottom of the eighth. The Dodgers next sent up left-handed swinger Duke Snider, but when Henry loped in they replaced Snider with right-handed hitter Frank Howard. It made no difference to Henry. He fanned Howard.

In the ninth, Henry gave up a single and two walks that loaded the bases with none out. That's when Brosnan hustled in.

The Giants, coming from behind with two unearned runs in the sixth for a 2-2 tie, won it with two out in the ninth when Joe Amalfitano beat out a dribbler down the third base line with the bases loaded. Curt Simmons (2-4) was the loser, while Stu Miller (4-0) won it with three innings of no-hit relief.

Ron Santo drove in the deciding run with a ninth-inning single for the Cubs as Robin Roberts lost his seventh in a row. Bob Anderson (2-3) was the winner for the Cubs in relief, with help from Don Elston in the ninth.

Voters Approve Harness Betting In Penna. County

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — Voters in Washington County have approved pari-mutuel betting on harness racing, the official tabulation showed.

The vote in the May 16 referendum was 36,593 in favor and 34,878 opposed to the proposal.

Washington County thus becomes the first county in western Pennsylvania to permit pari-mutuel harness racing betting.

Voters in five other western Pennsylvania counties rejected the proposal in the 1960 primary. They are Fayette, Allegheny, Westmoreland, Crawford and Erie.

The proposal was approved at the same time in Philadelphia, Northumberland, Delaware, Luzerene, Chester and Bucks counties.

Since then the state Harness Racing Commission has issued a license to a Philadelphia group to operate a track with pari-mutuel betting, but the action is being contested in the courts.

A group of harness racing enthusiasts already has taken steps to establish a track with pari-mutuel betting in Washington County.

The group has filed articles of incorporation with the state for a $4 million track at an undisclosed site.

Voters Approve Harness Betting In Penna. County

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — Voters in Washington County have approved pari-mutuel betting on harness racing, the official tabulation showed.

The vote in the May 16 referendum was 36,593 in favor and 34,878 opposed to the proposal.

Washington County thus becomes the first county in western Pennsylvania to permit pari-mutuel harness racing betting.

Voters in five other western Pennsylvania counties rejected the proposal in the 1960 primary. They are Fayette, Allegheny, Westmoreland, Crawford and Erie.

The proposal was approved at the same time in Philadelphia, Northumberland, Delaware, Luzerene, Chester and Bucks counties.

Since then the state Harness Racing Commission has issued a license to a Philadelphia group to operate a track with pari-mutuel betting, but the action is being contested in the courts.

A group of harness racing enthusiasts already has taken steps to establish a track with pari-mutuel betting in Washington County.

The group has filed articles of incorporation with the state for a $4 million track at an undisclosed site.

Yanks' Muscle Men Go To Work Again In 7-6 Victory

Tigers Drop 6-4 Tilt; Lead Over Indians Trimmed To Two

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Yankees, once more powered by home runs from Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle, reclaimed third place and moved within 3½ games of front-running Detroit in the American League race by beating Boston 7-6 Wednesday night. Detroit's lead was trimmed to two games over rain-idled Cleveland when Kansas City made it two straight over the Tigers, 6-4.

Baltimore slipped back to fourth with a 9-4 defeat by the Chicago White Sox, and the Los Angeles Angels, after losing 13 in a row on the road, won 5-3 in 12 innings at Washington.

Maris broke a 1-1 tie with his 12th home run in the third inning off loser Billy Muffett (0-5).

Rookie Roland Sheldon won his first in the majors, although he gave up a homer by Frank Malzone, who drove in three runs for the Red Sox and needed late relief by Luis Arroyo and Danny McDevitt.

The A's made it two in a row over the Tigers and handed ace Frank Lary (7-3) his second straight setback to boot. Joe Nuxhall (3-1) was the winner with relief help from Bill Kunkel.

Al Smith's one-on homer triggered a three-run third inning that wrapped up the White Sox' first victory over the Orioles in seven tries. Jim Landis also homered for the Sox. Frank Baumann (3-4) was the winner. Chuck Estrada (2-4) was the loser, giving up five runs on four hits and four walks in 2 2-3 innings. Both clubs had 10 hits.

The Angels finally beat the Senators on a walk and Ken Aspromonte's tie-breaking double in a two-run 12th. The Nats had tied it 3-all with a run in the eighth after blowing a 2-0 lead. Ted Bowsfield (1-1) was the winner and Marty Kutyna (3-1) the loser, both in relief.

Late Gridder To Get Wake Forest Degree

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—Wake Forest College announced today it will award a degree to Bill Skippon, a football halfback who died April 22 of leukemia.

Skippon, 21, of Conneaut, Ohio, would have graduated with a degree in business administration next Monday. Dr. Harold W. Tribble, the college president, said this will be the first posthumous award in the school's history.

Skippon played two years of varsity football and appeared in two games of the 1960 season before being sidelined by the incurable blood disease. He lacked two months of completing work for the degree, but told friends he wanted to complete his studies in spite of his impending death.

Carry Back Not For Sale, Even For $1.2 Million

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Win or lose in Saturday's $125,000 added Belmont Stakes, Carry Back is not for sale at any price—no not even for $1.2 million.

Jack Price, breeder and trainer of the horse which races in the name of his wife, Katherine, made that emphatic today after revealing he had rejected a syndicate's offer of $1.2 million for the 3-year-old colt whose stirring stretch runs in the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness have made him the new darling of thoroughbred racing.

Price declined to identify the syndicate but said he told them just what he has told all the others who have sought to purchase the unattractive looking son of Saggy:

"Carry Back is not for sale at any price."

Carry Back has added $739,068 to Price's bank account with 11 victories five seconds and five thirds in 30 starts.

He can pick up another $102,400 Saturday by winning the 1½ miles of the Belmont. Victory also would give him the distinction of being the ninth horse in history and the first since Citation in 1948 to win the coveted triple crown consisting of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont.

The odds were 3 to 5 today in favor of Carry Back.

Not more than five or possibly six are expected to contest the issue. He already has taken the measure of all of the probable leading contenders except the King Ranch's Bal Musette, who is conditioned by that canny trainer, Max Hirsch. Bal Musette skipped the Kentucky Derby and Preakness because Hirsch didn't consider him ready for such trying tests. But he has been training well and figures to be the second choice at 4-1.

Veteran Glass, Burbick's Continue LL Win Streaks

Veteran Plate Glass and Burbick's continued their winning pace in the East Liverpool Little League by recording their fifth straight victories.

John Stoddard and Mike McVay were the big guns for Plate Glass. Stoddard belted two home runs and a single while McVay doubled and smacked a solo home run. Marvin Six, who shared duties with Danny Standley, was the winning pitcher.

Rick Forzano and Tice stroked two hits each for the losers.

The Plate Glass - Travelers game was featured by a triple play. The play unfolded when a line drive was caught by the pitcher who threw to second, doubling a runner off there, and the ball went on to first for the third out.

Burbick's stopped a late rally by the Medic's which scored seven runs in the last inning.

Carl Natalina was the winning pitcher and fanned 10. Buzz Arrington had two hits and Jim Mostoller a home run for the winners.

Burbick's collected 11 hits with Emery Brewer, Mike Goodballet, Ed Golden and Natalina each collecting two. Goodballet, Jay Welch and Chip Hasala all hit home runs for the winners.

Dennis Klembara homered, doubled and singled to pace Golden Star's 12-hit attack. The Dairymen came from behind with a big 8-run fifth inning.

Foyt's Winnings Total $117,975

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Young A.J. Foyt of Houston, Tex., picked up an extra $6,575 today—a personal gift from owner Tony Hulman of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway that rounded out the total purse for Tuesday's 500-mile race at an even $400,000.

The total purse was a record, and so was Foyt's winner's share, hiked to $117,975 when Hulman announced his gift at the victory dinner Wednesday night.

The first place winnings topped by $7,975 the money won last year by Jim Rathmann. The total purse was $30,850 more than the $369,150 paid out in 1960.

Eddie Sachs of Center Valley, Pa., won $53,400 for second place.

Rathmann, who won $110,000 last year, took $5,270 for 30th place.

Ohio Offers Wide Variety Of Summer Sports Events

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Here it is June, the month of roses, brides, and some pretty good crappie fishing.

And for Ohio's sports fans, it brings up a varied program.

The Reds and the Indians, making redhot runs in the majors, are right in the middle of the spotlight. So are the Columbus Jets.

But for the non-baseball set, plenty of other events are on the way, with golfdom's oldsters and youngsters providing much of the fun.

The old-timers, 55 and over, have a 36-hole medal play tournament scheduled June 8-9 at Dayton's Miami Valley course for the state senior golf crown now worn by John Jacob of Canton. Entries close next Monday.

At the same time, June 8-11, the state trapshooting championships will be decided at Middletown — and outside the Grand American at Vandalia, the Buckeye bombardment is just about the biggest in the country.

Basketball takes over June 17 at Cuyahoga Falls, where the fourth (and possibly last) of the North-South high school games is scheduled. A host of All-Ohio stars fill the two 11-man squads.

Mansfield grabs the golfing attention with a two-tournament extravaganza starting June 19. The Mansfield News-Journal sponsors its Mid-American match play tournament for juniors, June 19-24, with Evan Schiltz of North Canton defending his 1960 laurels. That one is at the Possum Run course.

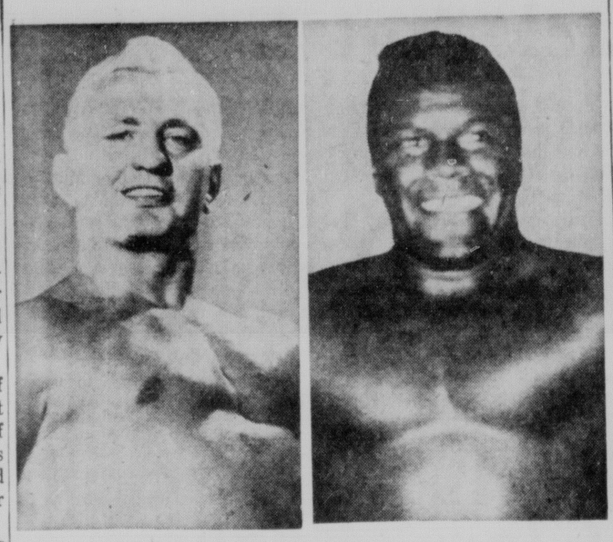
At the Westbrook layout, June 20-21, the pre-senior contingent ranging from 40 to 55 years of age offers its annual title test, a 36-hole medal play jaunt. Tom Jones Jr., the red-haird former state amateur king from Youngstown, is defending champion in the sixth annual affair sponsored by the Ohio Golf Association.

The following week, on June 27-28, the state association's junior championship of players 19 and under pops up at Findlay Country Club.

Last year John McGohan of Dayton won the junior crown at Marion, with Bob Littler Jr. of Athens second. Littler won Ohio's high school title last weekend and looks like an odds-on choice for the junior.

Denny Gallagher of Columbus won the 15-and-under division last year with 150, and Dick Fialho of Middletown was second with 152. Both will be in the sub-junior class again this time as the field goes after the 20th annual championship.

Lions Club Sets Mat Show Saturday At M-A



Nature Boy Buddy Rogers (left) and Sweet Daddy Siki will head an all-star wrestling card being presented Saturday night at Memorial Auditorium by the East Liverpool Lions Club.

Proceeds from the match will be used for the club's sight fund.

The show is the second sponsored by the club this year and drew almost 1,200 fans at the previous performance.

Three matches are set with a tag team bout and a girl's match. The first attraction gets underway at 9 p.m. Tickets are on sale at Heimie's, Rear-k's, Reese's Jewelers and Jordan's Service Station in East End.

Golfers Set At Memphis

MEMPHIS (AP) — Despite rip-roaring practice rounds, the $30,000 Memphis Open Golf Tournament kicked off today with predictions that an 8-under-par 272 for the 72-hole haul will win it.

This hardly seemed possible. But cash pressure was expected to make par over the 6,423-yard, 34-36—70 Colonial Country Club course a little tougher for the 95 pros entered.

Gardner Dickinson, the little belter from Tequesta, Fla., made it look easy Wednesday with a 7-under-par 31-32—63 that won the $300 low pro pot in the tournament's pro-am.

Jack Fleck, the former National Open champion from Los Angeles, had the day's second best round, a 65 that brought him $250. Ken Still of Tacoma, Wash., and Gene Littler of Singing Hills, Calif., each picked up $210 by virtue of 66s.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Rules For Taking Children Visiting

As a rule, the child under eight or ten is better off left at home with a responsible person while his parents go out together at night. But in some instances there may be merit in having the infant, tot or older youngster go along with his parents when they visit in a home. In some cases the infant may sleep at the home and the tots and older children may enjoy playmates there. For the child over two or three who rarely has playmates at or near his home, the experience might be especially wholesome. Something, too, may be said for the togetherness of the visiting family. We need to remember that some mothers rarely would get away from home for recreation if they didn't take one or more children along.

HOW WHOLESOME the experience may be will depend largely on how well the visiting youngsters have been brought up at home. If they have been unrestrained at home, or if they have not learned there to enjoy non-running fun, big problems may arise.

If children from two or more families are at the gathering, they will need some guidance and supervision; most of all, they need to enjoy non-running amusement. Of course the mere presence of so many adults could have a civilizing effect on the youngsters.

If one or two older children are present, they might do well at entertaining the younger ones.

Just to leave the youngsters wholly on their own may not work well. The hostess should be as much concerned about their enjoyment as the enjoyment of the adults.

AN OBJECTION to taking youngsters out at night is restriction of their sleeping hours and interference with the school work of the older ones.

In some instances, too, the behavior and utterances of the adults present may not be wholesome, especially if liquor is served.

You and I have observed parents who often go to homes and other places with their children. Although this practice sometimes violates what we consider good rules of child-rearing, we have seen some other good factors.

And although we would not advise all parents to take their children along at night, neither would we say none should. Before doing so, the parents should weigh and consider the various angles involved, the probable gains and losses, and proceed accordingly. Then they should, from time to time, review these matters with each other.

My bulletins, "Your Child and His Playmates" and "The Child Who Is Shy," may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

The American Automobile Association after reviewing current costs, estimates the daily budget for two persons traveling by car on vacation at $29.

Burglar Obtains Small Change At East End School

A burglar obtained only small change in a holiday entry of the East Junior High School that was discovered Wednesday, police reported today.

Some coins were taken in a ransacking of desks in the school's science room and some other small change was obtained from desks in the office of Principal Clarence Means, officers said.

Entry was gained sometime between 1 p.m. Tuesday and 8 a.m. Wednesday by breaking a window on the east side of the building leading to the science room. Several desks were ransacked.

Then the intruder broke a small pane of glass out of the door in the principal's office and reached through the opening to turn the knob. Drawers were pried open and desks were ransacked. Means told police he banks school funds daily, so there never is any appreciable amount in the building overnight.

Treats And Gifts Presented Georgetown School Pupils

Teachers Monday presented a treat of candy to Georgetown elementary pupils and gifts to those with attendance records.

Monday was the last day at the Georgetown school. Those with perfect attendance were Judy Nash, Francis Nash, John Finley, John Morris, Jo Ann McHaffie, Gregory Trimble, Deborah Trimble, Daniel Miles, Dale Rowley, Sandra Reed, Rose Marie Andrews and Sandra Laughlin of Room 2 taught by Mrs. Clifford Hall.

Silver dollars from the Parent-Teacher Association were given both groups.

Those with near perfect attendance were Deborah McHaffie, Susan Trimble, Steve Trimble, Samuel Laughlin and David Soisson.

Both teachers received a gift from their pupils. A dinner was held Friday in the school hall for pupils of Room 1 and their parents.

Pupils of Room 2 and their parents chartered a bus Friday for a sightseeing trip to Pittsburgh. John Nash was in charge of arrangements. Money for the trip was made at a carnival held in November.

Proceeds from the carnival, along with money in the school treasury, financed a dinner party for eighth grade graduates at the Farm Restaurant.

The graduates are Jon Allison, John Reckner, David Trimble, Sandra Laughlin, Jo Ann McHaffie and Linda Hweitt. All will attend South Side High School next fall.

Accompanying them at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Allison, Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Paul Hewitt.

Darwin Campbell and Lillian Laughlin will graduate June 6 from Midland Lincoln High School.

Mrs. Charles Finley entertained Dr. William H. Anthony of Rutherfordton, N.C. and Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Hilbert and family of Beaver with a dinner Sunday.

Dr. Anthony was a guest speaker at St. Luke's Episcopal Church. He is a former rector of the parish.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Doak and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kinsey of Pittsburgh were visitors here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wagner and son William Wagner Jr. and daughter, Virginia, of Warrensville Heights were Sunday guests of his grandmother, Mrs. Louis Wagner.

Treats And Gifts Presented Georgetown School Pupils

Teachers Monday presented a treat of candy to Georgetown elementary pupils and gifts to those with attendance records.

Monday was the last day at the Georgetown school. Those with perfect attendance were Judy Nash, Francis Nash, John Finley, John Morris, Jo Ann McHaffie, Gregory Trimble, Deborah Trimble, Daniel Miles, Dale Rowley, Sandra Reed, Rose Marie Andrews and Sandra Laughlin of Room 2 taught by Mrs. Clifford Hall.

Jane Finley, Deborah Soisson, Sheila Soisson, Gary Soisson, David Morris and James McHaffie of Room 1 taught by Mrs. Charles Shane.

Silver dollars from the Parent-Teacher Association were given both groups.

Those with near perfect attendance were Deborah McHaffie, Susan Trimble, Steve Trimble, Samuel Laughlin and David Soisson.

Both teachers received a gift from their pupils. A dinner was held Friday in the school hall for pupils of Room 1 and their parents.

Pupils of Room 2 and their parents chartered a bus Friday for a sightseeing trip to Pittsburgh. John Nash was in charge of arrangements. Money for the trip was made at a carnival held in November.

Proceeds from the carnival, along with money in the school treasury, financed a dinner party for eighth grade graduates at the Farm Restaurant.

The graduates are Jon Allison, John Reckner, David Trimble, Sandra Laughlin, Jo Ann McHaffie and Linda Hweitt. All will attend South Side High School next fall.

Accompanying them at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Allison, Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Paul Hewitt.

Darwin Campbell and Lillian Laughlin will graduate June 6 from Midland Lincoln High School.

Mrs. Charles Finley entertained Dr. William H. Anthony of Rutherfordton, N.C. and Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Hilbert and family of Beaver with a dinner Sunday.

Dr. Anthony was a guest speaker at St. Luke's Episcopal Church. He is a former rector of the parish.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Doak and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kinsey of Pittsburgh were visitors here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wagner and son William Wagner Jr. and daughter, Virginia, of Warrensville Heights were Sunday guests of his grandmother, Mrs. Louis Wagner.

College To Face A Busy Weekend At Steubenville

STEUBENVILLE — This will be a busy weekend for the College of Steubenville, with the laying of cornerstones for four new buildings Saturday and commencement exercises Sunday.

The cornerstone ceremony will take place on College Heights — new home of the school. Prior to laying of the cornerstones, the Rev. Kevin R. Keelan, T.O.R., will be invested as the second president of the college.

On Sunday, the 12th and final downtown commencement will be held at 3 p. m. at the Steubenville High School auditorium. There are 60 candidates for degrees.

Commencement activities will begin Friday with the Baccalaureate Mass at 7:30 p. m. at St. Peter's Church. The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered by the Most Rev. James W. Malone, auxiliary bishop of the diocese of Youngstown and superintendent of diocesan schools.

Equipment Theft Isn't Covered By Baseball's Rules

Stealing third base is part of the game, but stealing baseball equipment is just plain, old-fashioned larceny.

Catcher's equipment and 18 baseballs owned by American Legion Post 374 were stolen from a storage shed at Patterson Field in an entry discovered early Wednesday night, police were told.

In addition to the baseballs, the loss included a catcher's glove, mask and chest protector and two sets of shin guards, police were told. The post sponsors a Junior Legion baseball team.

The theft was reported to police at 7:25 p. m. yesterday by Wayne Craig, 219 Thompson Ave. He said the equipment was stolen from the shed sometime between Friday and 6 p. m. yesterday.

Marietta College Due Tower Chimes In Fall

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) — The campus of Marietta College will resound with the music of tower chimes next fall thanks to a bequest from a former student. Mrs. Nanette Elena Williamson Collinge of California, who died last year, had a provision in her will for $5,000 to the college for chimes to be installed in Erwin Hall and known as "Memorial Chimes."

School officials said the chimes will be purchased this month and installed during the summer.

Chico Marx, 70, Back Home From Hospital

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Comedian Chico Marx, 70, is home after 12 days of treatment at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital for chest pains.

The piano-playing member of the Marx Brothers was released from the hospital Wednesday.

Attend Convention

NEW CUMBERLAND — Donald and Mary Stewart, Mrs. Delores Foreman, and Miss Eva Gibson of Hancock County Court are attending a convention of West Virginia county clerks this week at Cacapon State Park near Berkeley Springs. They are scheduled to return about Saturday.

When you make pickles this summer, use enamel, porcelain-lined or other kettles that won't be affected by the vinegar's acid. Remember, too, to use wood, enamel or stainless-steel spoons for stirring and lading.

Attend Convention

NEW CUMBERLAND — Donald and Mary Stewart, Mrs. Delores Foreman, and Miss Eva Gibson of Hancock County Court are attending a convention of West Virginia county clerks this week at Cacapon State Park near Berkeley Springs. They are scheduled to return about Saturday.

When you make pickles this summer, use enamel, porcelain-lined or other kettles that won't be affected by the vinegar's acid. Remember, too, to use wood, enamel or stainless-steel spoons for stirring and lading.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My mother was having company for dinner and she baked a beautiful angel food cake and put it on the kitchen table to cool. When nobody was looking, our cat Bessie jumped up on the table and she ate a good-sized hunk out of the cake before anyone could stop her.

My mother got very mad when she caught Bessie at it and hit her with a dish towel. I tried to protect my little pet and caught a few lashes myself. I tried to explain that it wasn't Bessie's fault and that Mom should not have left the cake where she could get at it.

Mom says Bessie knew perfectly well that she was doing something wrong. Please, Miss Landers, tell me if Bessie really knew what she was doing? — BESSIE'S FRIEND.

Dear Friend: When a cat sees a cake it doesn't think of right or wrong. It thinks only of cake.

Your mother should not have put the cake where Bessie could get at it. Next time suggest she put it on top of the refrigerator.

4 A. M. Callers

Dear Ann: Several weeks ago our son married a girl we knew nothing about. He phoned to tell us they had eloped. They are both in their middle 20s and we felt they were old enough to know what they were doing.

Last week he phoned again to say they were starting out in a second-hand car and hoped they would "make it." Since it's a 2,500 mile trip, we were quite worried. A few days later we got a postcard saying the car had broken down 1,000 miles from here and they didn't know what they would do.

At 4 o'clock this morning they showed up at the front door. I was dead tired, looked a mess and very much annoyed with my son for waking us at that ungodly hour to meet our new daughter-in-law for the first time.

My son sensed that I was upset and said a mother ought to be glad to welcome her children at any hour of the day or night.

I say a decent son would have had better sense. He could have gone to a motel less than two miles from our home. He's far from broke. What do you say? — E.D.O.

Dear E. D. J.: I agree with you that your son showed poor judgment and no consideration. He should have given you a few hours' warning.

One For The Book

Dear Ann: My wife insists that she is socially correct and even though I've never read a book on etiquette, my common sense tells me she's wrong.

Is it proper to leave the manufacturer's label on fancy cut-glass vases, bottles and ash trays? Also, is it proper to leave the cellophane wrapping on lampshades? — JUST A SLOB.

Dear Just: It is never correct to leave the manufacturer's label on anything that is in use. If you send a gift, yes — provided the price is not in evidence.

Cellophane wrapping should come off the lampshade to show the true beauty of the fabric. Some people leave them on to "save" the shade — and I think it's an abomination.

Confidentially

TO DESPERATE: Why don't you write novels? Your phony letters are a waste of my time and your talent.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Pretty Girl Can Get Out Of Jail —IF She Marries

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A pretty, 18-year-old girl serving six months for assault and battery can get out of jail. All she has to do is get married.

Common Pleas Judge Winfield Scott Slocum sentenced Ruth Ann Hyde of Eastlake to Lake County jail Monday but made a condition that he would suspend the sentence if she gets married before the six months is up.

The girl's boy friend, who was not identified, is in the Navy at Norfolk, Va. Negotiations are under way to arrange a wedding—as soon as possible. A wedding had been planned before Miss Hyde's arrest.

Authorities said Miss Hyde and two men attacked an elderly man, hit him on the head with a bottle and tried to rob him.

Two Ex-French Generals Given 15 Years Each

PARIS (AP) — Two generals who once held top posts in the French army were each sentenced to 15 years in prison Wednesday night for leading the Foreign Legion mutiny in Algeria two months ago.

Maurice Challe, 55, and Andre Zeller, 63, were spared from death by the special court of nine officers and civilian jurists set up under the emergency powers of the man they defied, President Charles de Gaulle.

The prosecution had asked life sentences for Challe, former commander of allied forces in Central Europe, and Zeller, former French army chief of staff. Only De Gaulle can lighten their penalties and there was no sign that he would.

Two other retired generals had joined Challe and Zeller in the military junta that seized power in Algiers in April and held it four days. Raoul Salan and Edmond Jouhaud are believed still hiding out somewhere in Algeria, possibly readying new resistance in their zeal to keep Algeria French.

De Gaulle already had stripped all four of their rank.

Challe and Zeller gave up when France and the armed forces rallied behind De Gaulle and the mutiny collapsed.

Crucible Crews Will Be X-Rayed

Free chest X-rays will be available next week to all employes of the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. during a visit Monday through Friday of a mobile unit of the Beaver County Tuberculosis Association.

Miss Elma C. Graham, executive director, announced the schedule. She said the slogan for the X-ray survey will be "Do you know for sure if you have tuberculosis, lung cancer or enlarged heart?" She said X-ray examination will help find these before they become too serious.

The unit will be at the 10th St. Gate Monday from 1 to 5 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to midnight; Tuesday from 7 a. m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 3 p. m.; at the plant restaurant, Wednesday from 1 to 5 p. m. and from 10 to midnight, and Thursday from 7 a. m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 3 p. m., and Friday, at the plant hospital, from 9 a. m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 5 p. m.

Miss Graham said the X-rays are not compulsory but she hopes all employes will take them. She said the visit to the plant is a service offered and which Crucible accepted.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My mother was having company for dinner and she baked a beautiful angel food cake and put it on the kitchen table to cool. When nobody was looking, our cat Bessie jumped up on the table and she ate a good-sized hunk out of the cake before anyone could stop her.

My mother got very mad when she caught Bessie at it and hit her with a dish towel. I tried to protect my little pet and caught a few lashes myself. I tried to explain that it wasn't Bessie's fault and that Mom should not have left the cake where she could get at it.

Mom says Bessie knew perfectly well that she was doing something wrong. Please, Miss Landers, tell me if Bessie really knew what she was doing? — BESSIE'S FRIEND.

Dear Friend: When a cat sees a cake it doesn't think of right or wrong. It thinks only of cake.

Your mother should not have put the cake where Bessie could get at it. Next time suggest she put it on top of the refrigerator.

4 A. M. Callers

Dear Ann: Several weeks ago our son married a girl we knew nothing about. He phoned to tell us they had eloped. They are both in their middle 20s and we felt they were old enough to know what they were doing.

Last week he phoned again to say they were starting out in a second-hand car and hoped they would "make it." Since it's a 2,500 mile trip, we were quite worried. A few days later we got a postcard saying the car had broken down 1,000 miles from here and they didn't know what they would do.

At 4 o'clock this morning they showed up at the front door. I was dead tired, looked a mess and very much annoyed with my son for waking us at that ungodly hour to meet our new daughter-in-law for the first time.

My son sensed that I was upset and said a mother ought to be glad to welcome her children at any hour of the day or night.

I say a decent son would have had better sense. He could have gone to a motel less than two miles from our home. He's far from broke. What do you say? — E.D.O.

Dear E. D. J.: I agree with you that your son showed poor judgment and no consideration. He should have given you a few hours' warning.

One For The Book

Dear Ann: My wife insists that she is socially correct and even though I've never read a book on etiquette, my common sense tells me she's wrong.

Is it proper to leave the manufacturer's label on fancy cut-glass vases, bottles and ash trays? Also, is it proper to leave the cellophane wrapping on lampshades? — JUST A SLOB.

Dear Just: It is never correct to leave the manufacturer's label on anything that is in use. If you send a gift, yes — provided the price is not in evidence.

Cellophane wrapping should come off the lampshade to show the true beauty of the fabric. Some people leave them on to "save" the shade — and I think it's an abomination.

Confidentially

TO DESPERATE: Why don't you write novels? Your phony letters are a waste of my time and your talent.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Pretty Girl Can Get Out Of Jail —IF She Marries

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A pretty, 18-year-old girl serving six months for assault and battery can get out of jail. All she has to do is get married.

Common Pleas Judge Winfield Scott Slocum sentenced Ruth Ann Hyde of Eastlake to Lake County jail Monday but made a condition that he would suspend the sentence if she gets married before the six months is up.

The girl's boy friend, who was not identified, is in the Navy at Norfolk, Va. Negotiations are under way to arrange a wedding—as soon as possible. A wedding had been planned before Miss Hyde's arrest.

Authorities said Miss Hyde and two men attacked an elderly man, hit him on the head with a bottle and tried to rob him.

Two Ex-French Generals Given 15 Years Each

PARIS (AP) — Two generals who once held top posts in the French army were each sentenced to 15 years in prison Wednesday night for leading the Foreign Legion mutiny in Algeria two months ago.

Maurice Challe, 55, and Andre Zeller, 63, were spared from death by the special court of nine officers and civilian jurists set up under the emergency powers of the man they defied, President Charles de Gaulle.

The prosecution had asked life sentences for Challe, former commander of allied forces in Central Europe, and Zeller, former French army chief of staff. Only De Gaulle can lighten their penalties and there was no sign that he would.

Two other retired generals had joined Challe and Zeller in the military junta that seized power in Algiers in April and held it four days. Raoul Salan and Edmond Jouhaud are believed still hiding out somewhere in Algeria, possibly readying new resistance in their zeal to keep Algeria French.

De Gaulle already had stripped all four of their rank.

Challe and Zeller gave up when France and the armed forces rallied behind De Gaulle and the mutiny collapsed.

Free chest X-rays will be available next week to all employes of the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. during a visit Monday through Friday of a mobile unit of the Beaver County Tuberculosis Association.

Miss Elma C. Graham, executive director, announced the schedule. She said the slogan for the X-ray survey will be "Do you know for sure if you have tuberculosis, lung cancer or enlarged heart?" She said X-ray examination will help find these before they become too serious.

The unit will be at the 10th St. Gate Monday from 1 to 5 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to midnight; Tuesday from 7 a. m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 3 p. m.; at the plant restaurant, Wednesday from 1 to 5 p. m. and from 10 to midnight, and Thursday from 7 a. m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 3 p. m., and Friday, at the plant hospital, from 9 a. m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 5 p. m.

Out Of The Air

By MARIE TORRE

Three Big Men Due TV Coverage

If TV popularity is commensurate with TV exposure, the reigning stars of television this week and next will be John F. Kennedy, Charles de Gaulle and Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Marie Torre

The chiefs of state literally will blanket home screens in the coming days, what with each network devoting at least one special a day to the presidential odyssey, in addition periodic newscasts that will be delivered by crews overseas ranging from 40 to 50 men per network.

Should be a good show!

The principals are not only formidable personalities but also well versed in the art of communicating through TV.

ABOUT President Kennedy, we know his TV manner has stood him in such good stead even he admits that television contributed to his election. De Gaulle and Khrushchev also have utilized TV to win political victories.

From Paris, CBS correspondent David Schoenbrun informs us that de Gaulle relies solely on the strength of his own personality in his television appeals to the French people.

"The setting is stark," says Schoenbrun. "A simple desk in front of a neutral curtain. No props, except perhaps a glass of water. No charts or maps.

"But de Gaulle makes one concession to showmanship; he always puts on his old army uniform, the one he wore on June 18, 1940, when he went to London to make his famous France-has-lost-a-battle-not-a-war speech."

-:-

BECAUSE of poor eyesight, the French president cannot follow a script unless he wears heavy glasses, reports Schoenbrun. Nor can he read a teleprompter. He memorizes his entire speech, even the long ones.

De Gaulle used television to help frustrate the revolt of the generals last month, Schoenbrun says, and one address alone stopped the riots at the barricades in January 1960.

Ironically, de Gaulle discovered the power of his TV personality almost by accident. A traditionalist, he had refused to go before cameras until the director of the French national TV network begged him to, telling de Gaulle that he needed the general's prestige to build his network.

FOR HIS FIRST appearance de Gaulle wore no makeup. There was no music, little introduction. Yet the general's gifted use of the French language — a talent deeply admired by the French — and his magnetic voice, Schoenbrun says, combined to make his first appearance a dramatic success.

Now the French chief of state insists on makeup; he pre-records his speeches at 1 p.m. and orders them flown to Algeria where they are broadcast at the same time they are heard in France.

In almost every speech, says the CBS correspondent, the president coins a new word or twists a phrase to new use. In referring to the four generals who rebelled last month, he sarcastically called them the "quarteron," a word meaning not "four" but "one-fourth."

UNLIKE President Kennedy, de Gaulle refuses to answer questions from the floor in a televised press conference. Instead, he listens to all questions, then answers them all at once in a kind of collective monologue.

"There are three reasons for de Gaulle's fantastic success as a television personality," observes Schoenbrun. "He presents the image of a Great Man to a nation that is no longer great. He uses his native tongue to beautifully telling effect. And he appears only rarely — seven times in the past three years."

American viewers are more familiar with Khrushchev's TV image than de Gaulle's. The Soviet premier, says NBC correspondent Joe Michaels, is no different on Russian TV.

"KHRUSHCHEV," says Michaels, "is at his worst when he doesn't have an audience. He needs human response. Without it, he is wooden; with it, he is spirited.

"He ad libs, waves his arms, looks straight into the eyes of his audience, never uses a teleprompter, turns scornful or very angry if he meets with opposition.

"In Russia once I asked him a question which made him angry. He said he never would again answer one of my questions and walked away."

Whether Khrushchev does or doesn't "walk away" from the presidential meets, it all promises to be quite a show for viewers!

Veteran Trucker New Head Of Concern

CLEVELAND (AP) — Champ Madigan, a veteran trucker, has come out of retirement to head the Cleveland Cartage Co. Madigan, 67, succeeds John C. DeVenne as president of the big trucking company which serves much of the nation from Boston to Cleveland and has an annual volume between 12 and 14 million dollars.

He retired in 1956 after serving with Cleveland - based U. S. Truck Lines, Inc. of Delaware and its predecessor firms since 1927. He served as president of two of its subsidiaries: Motor Express, Inc., and Cleveland, Columbus & Cincinnati Highway, Inc.

Educator Claimed

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Dr. Robert Eckles Swain, 86, emeritus professor of chemistry at Stanford University, died Wednesday, apparently of a heart attack.

Mr. K Lists Chief Issues For Kennedy

VIENNA (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev at his meeting this weekend with President Kennedy is expected to put disarmament, the German peace treaty, the Berlin question and abolition of colonialism at the top of his discussion list.

This was indicated Wednesday night by Antonin Novotny, Czechoslovakia's president and Communist party chief, as he welcomed the Soviet leader on his arrival at Bratislava, just across the border from Austria.

Novotny said many "dangerous open questions" will make the Khrushchev-Kennedy meeting a difficult one.

"Among the problems," he continued, "are disarmament, the conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany, including a solution of the West Berlin question, and a definite liquidation of colonialism."

Khrushchev in reply said he did not want to "make any prior judgment on the result of the meeting but we will strive for a relaxation of world tensions and to secure peace."

"Our delegation will intercede for not only what the people of the socialist countries want, but what the people of the entire world want, namely peace, the Soviet premier said.

Khrushchev is due in Vienna Friday. There had been speculation he would hold a Communist bloc summit meeting in Czechoslovakia before his meeting with Kennedy. But reports from Prague said such a get-together might be held after the Vienna conference, not before.

While it was generally expected that the Soviet premier would bear down hard on his long-standing demand that the allied garrisons withdraw from West Berlin, authoritative Austrian sources reported Khrushchev had indicated otherwise to Llewellyn Thompson, the U.S. ambassador in Moscow.

The Austrian sources said that Thompson, in one of his recent talks with Khrushchev, had told the premier that Kennedy was not ready so early in his administration to discuss such a critical issue as Berlin. Khrushchev indicated he "understood" Kennedy's position, the Austrians said.

Cartoonists' Society Cites Guard At U.N.

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Cartoonists Society has bestowed its first ace (Amateur Cartoonist Extraordinary) award on one of the United Nations' 150 uniformed guards.

He is Arne Rhode, 6-foot-6 Norwegian-born security man, who confines himself to lampooning the foibles of his fellow workers. After all, he's an international civil servant himself and has to steer clear of politics in his cartooning.

Rhode received a scroll from Bill Holman, New York Daily News cartoonist and new president of the society, in a ceremony at the Lambs Club Wednesday night.

Child Hurts Throat On Flute; Welder Suffers Flash Burns

A city youngster who fell with a toy flute in his mouth is in "satisfactory" condition today at City Hospital where 11 adults and youngsters were treated Wednesday and early this morning.

Michael Stockdale, 21-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Stockdale, 433 Thompson Ave., suffered throat injuries when he fell with a toy instrument in his mouth.

Charles Pittenger, 44, of Chester R.D. 1 was treated about 12:55 a.m. today for flash burns of the eyes suffered while at work near some welding equipment yesterday afternoon.

Highway Of Death For Jews Cited At Eichmann's Trial

JERUSALEM, Israel (AP) — Adolf Eichmann's final roundup of the Jews of Hungary turned the road from Budapest to the Austrian border into a highway of death, an eyewitness testified today.

Attorney Arie Breslauer said that he worked with the Swedes and the Swiss to save the Jews from the Gestapo chieftain's last big pogrom in November 1944 but was unable to balk the Germans and the Hungarian fascists who collaborated with them enthusiastically.

The Israeli prosecution, nearing the end of its case against Eichmann as the high priest of the Jewish slaughter, developed the death march story first with documents showing Eichmann initiated it.

The evidence showed that Hitler ordered the Hungarian regent, Adm. Nicholas Horty, deposed for defeatism, seized complete power, installed a new Hungarian regime and sent Eichmann back from Berlin to complete "the final solution of the Jewish problem"—extermination.

Total mobilization of the remaining Jews in Budapest—about 200,000 — ensued. Breslauer said the streets were black with them, shoved along, herded like cattle.

A document left by the late Dr. Rezsloe Kastner, a Jewish leader in Budapest, quoted Eichmann: "You see I am back again. My arms are long and my arms can reach the Jews of Budapest as well. This time they will be driven out on foot."

Breslauer said he saw the roundup of the vanguard of 50,000.

The Jews were marched 137 miles over seven or eight days to the Austrian frontier where they were turned over to Dieter Wisliceny, Eichmann's deputy in that area.

"Thousands died," Breslauer said. "The weak were shot."

Playwright Jailed For Disturbing Peace

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Irish playwright Brendan Behan is in an isolation cell at police headquarters, accused of disturbing the peace.

Officers picked up Behan, 38, at McGoo's Pizza Restaurant in Hollywood Wednesday after manager Jerry Brentari refused to serve him a beer. Brentari told police he arrested the playwright after he started swearing and acting disorderly in the restaurant.

Patrolman Charles Brewer said Behan swung at him but missed, while officers were trying to take a photograph at headquarters.

Said Brewer: "He acted like a character out of one of his plays."

Out Of The Air

By MARIE TORRE

Three Big Men Due TV Coverage

If TV popularity is commensurate with TV exposure, the reigning stars of television this week and next will be John F. Kennedy, Charles de Gaulle and Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Marie Torre

The chiefs of state literally will blanket home screens in the coming days, what with each network devoting at least one special a day to the presidential odyssey, in addition periodic newscasts that will be delivered by crews overseas ranging from 40 to 50 men per network.

Should be a good show!

The principals are not only formidable personalities but also well versed in the art of communicating through TV.

ABOUT President Kennedy, we know his TV manner has stood him in such good stead even he admits that television contributed to his election. De Gaulle and Khrushchev also have utilized TV to win political victories.

From Paris, CBS correspondent David Schoenbrun informs us that de Gaulle relies solely on the strength of his own personality in his television appeals to the French people.

"The setting is stark," says Schoenbrun. "A simple desk in front of a neutral curtain. No props, except perhaps a glass of water. No charts or maps.

"But de Gaulle makes one concession to showmanship; he always puts on his old army uniform, the one he wore on June 18, 1940, when he went to London to make his famous France-has-lost-a-battle-not-a-war speech."

-:-

BECAUSE of poor eyesight, the French president cannot follow a script unless he wears heavy glasses, reports Schoenbrun. Nor can he read a teleprompter. He memorizes his entire speech, even the long ones.

De Gaulle used television to help frustrate the revolt of the generals last month, Schoenbrun says, and one address alone stopped the riots at the barricades in January 1960.

Ironically, de Gaulle discovered the power of his TV personality almost by accident. A traditionalist, he had refused to go before cameras until the director of the French national TV network begged him to, telling de Gaulle that he needed the general's prestige to build his network.

FOR HIS FIRST appearance de Gaulle wore no makeup. There was no music, little introduction. Yet the general's gifted use of the French language — a talent deeply admired by the French — and his magnetic voice, Schoenbrun says, combined to make his first appearance a dramatic success.

Now the French chief of state insists on makeup; he pre-records his speeches at 1 p.m. and orders them flown to Algeria where they are broadcast at the same time they are heard in France.

In almost every speech, says the CBS correspondent, the president coins a new word or twists a phrase to new use. In referring to the four generals who rebelled last month, he sarcastically called them the "quarteron," a word meaning not "four" but "one-fourth."

UNLIKE President Kennedy, de Gaulle refuses to answer questions from the floor in a televised press conference. Instead, he listens to all questions, then answers them all at once in a kind of collective monologue.

"There are three reasons for de Gaulle's fantastic success as a television personality," observes Schoenbrun. "He presents the image of a Great Man to a nation that is no longer great. He uses his native tongue to beautifully telling effect. And he appears only rarely — seven times in the past three years."

American viewers are more familiar with Khrushchev's TV image than de Gaulle's. The Soviet premier, says NBC correspondent Joe Michaels, is no different on Russian TV.

"KHRUSHCHEV," says Michaels, "is at his worst when he doesn't have an audience. He needs human response. Without it, he is wooden; with it, he is spirited.

"He ad libs, waves his arms, looks straight into the eyes of his audience, never uses a teleprompter, turns scornful or very angry if he meets with opposition.

"In Russia once I asked him a question which made him angry. He said he never would again answer one of my questions and walked away."

Whether Khrushchev does or doesn't "walk away" from the presidential meets, it all promises to be quite a show for viewers!

Mr. K Lists Chief Issues For Kennedy

VIENNA (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev at his meeting this weekend with President Kennedy is expected to put disarmament, the German peace treaty, the Berlin question and abolition of colonialism at the top of his discussion list.

This was indicated Wednesday night by Antonin Novotny, Czechoslovakia's president and Communist party chief, as he welcomed the Soviet leader on his arrival at Bratislava, just across the border from Austria.

Novotny said many "dangerous open questions" will make the Khrushchev-Kennedy meeting a difficult one.

"Among the problems," he continued, "are disarmament, the conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany, including a solution of the West Berlin question, and a definite liquidation of colonialism."

Khrushchev in reply said he did not want to "make any prior judgment on the result of the meeting but we will strive for a relaxation of world tensions and to secure peace."

"Our delegation will intercede for not only what the people of the socialist countries want, but what the people of the entire world want, namely peace, the Soviet premier said.

Khrushchev is due in Vienna Friday. There had been speculation he would hold a Communist bloc summit meeting in Czechoslovakia before his meeting with Kennedy. But reports from Prague said such a get-together might be held after the Vienna conference, not before.

While it was generally expected that the Soviet premier would bear down hard on his long-standing demand that the allied garrisons withdraw from West Berlin, authoritative Austrian sources reported Khrushchev had indicated otherwise to Llewellyn Thompson, the U.S. ambassador in Moscow.

The Austrian sources said that Thompson, in one of his recent talks with Khrushchev, had told the premier that Kennedy was not ready so early in his administration to discuss such a critical issue as Berlin. Khrushchev indicated he "understood" Kennedy's position, the Austrians said.

Cartoonists' Society Cites Guard At U.N.

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Cartoonists Society has bestowed its first ace (Amateur Cartoonist Extraordinary) award on one of the United Nations' 150 uniformed guards.

He is Arne Rhode, 6-foot-6 Norwegian-born security man, who confines himself to lampooning the foibles of his fellow workers. After all, he's an international civil servant himself and has to steer clear of politics in his cartooning.

Rhode received a scroll from Bill Holman, New York Daily News cartoonist and new president of the society, in a ceremony at the Lambs Club Wednesday night.

Highway Of Death For Jews Cited At Eichmann's Trial

JERUSALEM, Israel (AP) — Adolf Eichmann's final roundup of the Jews of Hungary turned the road from Budapest to the Austrian border into a highway of death, an eyewitness testified today.

Attorney Arie Breslauer said that he worked with the Swedes and the Swiss to save the Jews from the Gestapo chieftain's last big pogrom in November 1944 but was unable to balk the Germans and the Hungarian fascists who collaborated with them enthusiastically.

The Israeli prosecution, nearing the end of its case against Eichmann as the high priest of the Jewish slaughter, developed the death march story first with documents showing Eichmann initiated it.

The evidence showed that Hitler ordered the Hungarian regent, Adm. Nicholas Horty, deposed for defeatism, seized complete power, installed a new Hungarian regime and sent Eichmann back from Berlin to complete "the final solution of the Jewish problem"—extermination.

Total mobilization of the remaining Jews in Budapest—about 200,000 — ensued. Breslauer said the streets were black with them, shoved along, herded like cattle.

A document left by the late Dr. Rezsloe Kastner, a Jewish leader in Budapest, quoted Eichmann: "You see I am back again. My arms are long and my arms can reach the Jews of Budapest as well. This time they will be driven out on foot."

Breslauer said he saw the roundup of the vanguard of 50,000.

The Jews were marched 137 miles over seven or eight days to the Austrian frontier where they were turned over to Dieter Wisliceny, Eichmann's deputy in that area.

"Thousands died," Breslauer said. "The weak were shot."

SALINEVILLE — Prizes totaling over $175 will be awarded at the annual firemen's homecoming parade June 9, climaxing the annual event starting Monday.

Some 50 units have already registered for the parade, Arthur Brandonisio, parade marshal, said today.

Advance ticket sales for the amusement rides will end Saturday. Rides will be provided by the Dine Amusement Co. of Canton, and firemen and others will sponsor a lunch stand and other concessions.

Merchants have been invited to enter floats in the parade which is to begin at 7:30, forming in the East End.

Prizes include best band and best drum and bugle corps, $25 each; second best band, best marching unit, best looking pumper, $15 each, and best emergency car and truck, comic outfit, oldest truck, best firemen's ambulance, best majorettes, best renovated old car and unit traveling farthest, $10.

All bands not winning prizes will receive $10.

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. and Region 33, District 50, United Mine Workers, agreed on a new three-year contract Wednesday less than 24 hours after expiration of the previous agreement. Playwright Jailed For Disturbing Peace

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Irish playwright Brendan Behan is in an isolation cell at police headquarters, accused of disturbing the peace.

Officers picked up Behan, 38, at McGoo's Pizza Restaurant in Hollywood Wednesday after manager Jerry Brentari refused to serve him a beer. Brentari told police he arrested the playwright after he started swearing and acting disorderly in the restaurant.

Patrolman Charles Brewer said Behan swung at him but missed, while officers were trying to take a photograph at headquarters.

Said Brewer: "He acted like a character out of one of his plays."

Young Mother Reduces In Gay Way

Overweight young mothers, today's column provides inspiration for you. Here's a new slant on slimming — a successful dieter describes a gay way by which she is reducing. Her letter is brimming with enthusiasm. Follow her plan and you'll not only trim down beautifully, but you'll perk up your spirits in the bargain. Our model dieter writes:

Ida Jean Kain

"I want to say thanks to the 'young mother dieters' who have written to you. Their letters have inspired and challenged me—and now I hope my experience can be of help to others.

"I'm so pleased with myself! I've finally gotten on the bandwagon and the results are wonderful. What did it? I took your advice, but I must claim for myself the glory of making up my mind to what had to be done.

"I'M 24, MOTHER of three boys, the oldest of whom is three. I weighed 155 pounds for my 5 feet 7, and had these terrible statistics: bust 39, waist 28, abdomen 38, hips 42, with flabby 25-inch thighs.

"I had taken some kidding from my good-natured husband about my 'broadening beam,' but only when I realized that I couldn't get on the skirt to my nicest suit did I face up to my figure dilemma. I also began thinking about the rest of me — tired, irritable, sloppy, and very unglamorous.

"I made up my mind to do something about it. Of most importance, at the very start, I changed my attitude to one of gayness, confidence, and determination.

"I changed my hairdo, started wearing prettier dresses (even around home), and reduced my calorie intake to 950 per day. I have taken shaping up exercises daily. Also, on each nice day, the boys and I go for a real long walk.

"Now after one month I present a much nicer picture — bust 39, waist 26, abdomen 36, hips 40½, and firmer thighs 22½. My weight is still high at 146. I have set a date two months from now as my goal to be slim and healthy at 135. (Note from dietitian: 140 pounds would be right.)

"Perhaps these tips would be of help to others: (1) Get lots of fresh air and sunshine; (2) Take real pleasure in eating only as much as you should; (3) Enjoy life, even over the rough spots —decide to keep your sense of humor; (4) Don't give in to pangs of self-pity — you'll regret it.

BRUSH YOUR hair regularly, wear make - up, and even for housework, wear a pretty dress; (6) Set a goal and keep your goal vividly in mind; (7) Weigh and measure once weekly; (8) Watch your husband perk up at those shapely figures on TV—and even better, watch him look twice at yours once again. (It's wonderful!)"

Cheers for this spirited young mother. Her attitude is so right she can't go wrong.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. What can I do when the bottle of rubbing alcohol or hair shampoo has a too-large opening and causes waste?

A. Fit the bottle opening with an insert made from the top of a toothpaste tube. Flatten and trim the tube flange to fit in the bottle cap. Remove the sealing disc from the bottle cap, bore a hole into the cap, and insert the screw neck of the tube. Cut a hole the sealing disc of the same size as the inside diameter of the neck, or smaller, to reduce the flow. Replace the disc in the cap.

Q. How can I clean clothing that is spotted with machine grease?

A. Add a little ammonia and soap to cold water, and apply this to the fabric. Ammonia in which salt has been dissolved will also remove grease.

Q. How can I remove the dark streaks on hardwood floors, caused by moving furniture about?

A. You can usually erase these with a soapy cloth dipped in kerosene.

Hancock Group Returns From Trip To Capital

Oliver Johnson, Hancock County agricultural agent, has returned from a trip to Washington where he visited the Department of Agriculture to become acquainted with the federal office's programs relating to farming.

Johnson and 10 other county agents from West Virginia visited with Sens. Robert C. Byrd and Jennings Randolph during their stay in the capital.

"The senators were rather amazed to find out that we were not there asking for something," Johnson said.

The group visited the Maryland Agronomy and Dairy Experiment Stations to see trials on comparisons of feeding grass silage and hay to dairy animals, and its work with pelleted hay and baled hay.

Johnson was told by the Agricultural Marketing Service that West Virginia receives $9 million in surplus foods, given to 18 per cent of the state's residents. A film, "Food and Hunger," made in West Virginia, was screened for the agents.

The farm agents stayed at the National 4-H Center. They attended a party at which International Farm Youth Exchangees from over 20 foreign countries came in their native dress and presented games and dances.

Firemen's Auxiliary To Buy Refrigerator

The auxiliary of the Lawrenceville volunteer fire department has authorized the purchase of a used refrigerator for a kitchen firemen are constructing at the fire station.

Mrs. Lois Brewer has been named chaplain of the group.

Plans are complete for a lunch stand and children's game at the firemen's fair June 6-10, and for a concession stand at the Chester firemen's fair at Rock Springs Park.

Like berries served with sweet cream and granulated sugar? Try them, sometime, with sour cream and brown sugar.
